Says Russia Sells Wheat Short In Chicago

FARM BOARD ENTERS INTO TRADE FIGHT

Member of Board Says There Is Ulterior Motive On Part of Russians

BUYS FROM CANADA

Secretary Hyde Requests Board of Trade to End Trading By Soviets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The Federal Farm board entered the Russian wheat controversy today when Samuel R. McKelvie, wheat member of the board, expressed the opinion there was an "ulterior motive" in the alleged Soviet Russian policy of selling wheat short in the Chicago board of trade.

McKelvie's discussion today followed a telegram sent last night by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde to John A. Bunnell, president of the board of trade, saying that investigation has shown a subsidiary of the Soviet Amtorg Trading corporation is selling wheat short in Chicago.

McKelvie's discussion today followed a telegram sent last night by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde to John A. Bunnell, president of the board of trade, saying that investigation has shown a subsidiary of the Soviet Amtorg Trading corporation is selling wheat short in Chicago.

McKelvie was asked whether the Soviet Russian short selling might not be for the purpose of depressing prices in Canada where the Russian government is a purchaser. McKelvie replied:

"The Russian government through an industrial program which is fairly under way is producing wheat at 20 cents a bushel. This is done with large scale operations and very low priced labor.
"If by competitive methods Soviet Russia could bring the world to its view of Communism, that would be desirable from the Russian standpoint. If they could in this country by depressing means are at their command, that might further accentuate unrest and discontent among our farmers."
Not Big Factor
Explaining that Soviet Russia was not now a big factor in the wheat situation, McKelvie said it was possible for the Russians vastly to increase their wheat production. On collective farms in Soviet Russia, he explained, wheat could be produced at 30 cents a bushel.
Last year Soviet Russia exported 6,440,000 bushels of wheat and so far this year has exported 48,000,000. McKelvie believed the current publicity attending Secretary of Agriculture Hyde's request of the Chicago board of trade to prevent further Soviet Russian speculation in wheat would have considerable effect in stopping the short selling.
Bunnell announced today in Chicago that he would start an immediate investigation. Wheat prices advanced on the board of trade today after Hyde's publication of the charges last night.
State department officials said today they were without information concerning the agriculture department's move.
Hence they refused to comment on Secretary Hyde's action, but nevertheless they suggested they did not believe the Russians were motivated in their short selling by any ulterior plan to depress wheat prices and thus cause disaffection among American farmers.
The White House declined today to comment, explaining it was a departmental matter.

ANDREE'S LAST DAYS IN NORTH ARE EXPLAINED

Diary Found in Arctic Is Made Public By Swedish Government

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The story of Salomon Auguste Andree's last days, written as he and two explorer companions wandered toward starvation and death in the Arctic, is told in a communique issued by the Swedish government, based on Andree's 142 page diary.

Andree, Nils Strindberg and Knut Franckel tried to fly to the North Pole by balloon in 1897. They were forced down and died on White Island after more than two months of wandering through the Arctic wastes.

The flight began from Dane's Island, Spitzbergen, July 11, 1897. Andree's last notation in his diary was made Oct. 2, 1897. It said:

"With such comrades, one should be able to get through under any circumstances."
Remains of Andree's camp were found on August 6, last, 33 years after the balloonists started north.

The wanderings of the trio over the ice and their suffering are vividly described in extracts published from Andree's diary. Fire broke out in the gondola of their balloon at 7 a. m. on July 14, but was easily extinguished. The balloon had been forced down so low that it repeatedly touched the ice on the first two days of the journey.
The balloon's position on July 14 was 83 north latitude, 30 east longitude, some 600 miles short of their objective, the North Pole. The exact cause for abandoning the flight was not revealed in the diary, but Andree opened the valves of the balloon to prepare for a safe landing.
A landing in this case meant descending on the jagged and shifting ice of the Arctic Circle. Andree and his companions, well dressed in the ways of northern explorers, devoted eight days to preparing their sleds and equipment for their southward journey on foot in hope of rescue.
Andree's spirit—he was the oldest of the explorers but apparently ministered to the needs of his companions—was typified by the entry he made in his diary as the three men left their balloon and started the long trek across the desolate region.

13 VESSELS IN DISTRESS OFF FRENCH COAST

Seventy Mile Gale Whips English Channel and Damage Reported

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Thirteen vessels were in difficulty off the English and French coasts today as a 70-mile gale swept the English channel.
Reports of vessels battling the storm poured in during the day, while all shipping was forced to seek shelter.

The gale at Folkestone was the worst experienced there in years. Trees were uprooted and roofs dislodged. Huge seas sweeping the foreshore smashed motor boats and small vessels at Dover.
Two freight trains collided in a blinding rain near Reading. There were no injuries, but several cars were derailed and traffic was tied up for several hours.

The battle of an Imperial Airways liner towards its port, thrilled large crowds. The huge machine appeared almost stationary at times as it fought the wind. It eventually landed at Lympne air-drome, instead of coming into Crotoy.

The Italian oil tanker Tuscanica, of 7012 tons, was reported in danger of drifting on the Ushant rocks after a tug from Brest had been unable to approach closer than one mile to the distressed vessel.

125 CASES OF CHOICE LIQUOR TAKEN IN RAID

Federal Officers Surprise Landing Party Near Sunset Beach

A FRIENDLY FOG that hovered close to the coast line early this morning looked like perfect weather for the unloading of whiskey in case lots, off Sunset Beach, so thought a band of rum runners who had whiskey to land. But Federal prohibition officers had the same idea, and their job being to capture rum when it is landed, were on hand when the fog blanketed the little Orange county beach city.

As a result, 125 cases of Scotch whiskey, a Lincoln sedan, a Ford sedan, a Ford truck, and a motor lorry were captured, while four men, surprised in the raid dashed off in the early morning darkness and disappeared.

Federal officers from the administrator's office in Los Angeles, conducted the raid and the confiscated liquor was taken there, as was the transportation means which the rum runners left in a

Calvin Coolidge Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 20.—In the conduct of a popular government, in the maintenance of liberty, in releasing the human mind from artificial restraints so that the people may be free to pursue the truth and follow the rule of conscience, a broad spirit of toleration is necessary. This is only another name for a becoming humility. None of us know all there is to know. While our way may be best for us some different way may be best for others.

In a world of limitations we cannot expect perfection. But we ought not to permit any confusion between toleration and complacency. We have certain legal and social standards that support all progress. They are not easy to maintain. Their value often does not appear to the young and the thoughtless. It may be thought we can have a little graft in government and business without much harm. But if an attitude of complacency is adopted towards such conduct it will be but a short time before the whole political and social fabric is corroded by corruption.

Car Plunges Into Newport Bay, Injuring Two Persons

TURN TURTLE ON PALISADES HIGHWAY CURVE

Four persons were injured as a result of two accidents which occurred today in different parts of Orange county, reports filed at the sheriff's office disclosed.

Carl Dodd, 606 North Garnsey street, and another youth, whose name was not reported, sustained minor injuries when their car, a light sedan, carrying a Montana license, tipped over at a curve on the Palisades road near the Standard Oil company's well, Newport Beach, and fell into the bay. The water being but two feet deep at the point of accident, the occupants of the car managed to crawl out and make their way to dry land. State Traffic Officers Dan Adams and Ole Buer and Deputy Sheriff Arthur L. Steward investigated the accident. The injured youths were taken to the Santa Ana hospital in a taxi and the car was brought ashore by a crew from the Standard Oil well.

Two Mexicans, M. Lopez and A. Lopez, 1528 West 51st street, Los Angeles, were slightly bruised this morning when the car in which they were riding, driven by A. R. Carillo, of the same address, tipped over while attempting to avoid a collision with a car driven by C. G. Row of Los Angeles. The accident happened at 8:30 a. m. on the Anaheim-Santa Ana highway near the Katella road intersection.

2 Investigations Started In Death Of Noted Aviatrix

hurry when they saw the advance being made by the Federals.

The raid was conducted one block north of Skipper's Chowder House, at Sunset Beach at 5 o'clock this morning. Federal officers had been working on a tip that liquor was to be landed there for the past several days and when they saw the lorry heading for shore, and the auto mobiles on the beach to meet it, they drew closer and sprung on their prey at the opportune moment, after the liquor had been dumped on the sand.

The raid is the most successful one accomplished here in the past several months, the largest amount of liquor being taken. At bootleg prices, it was worth more than $1000.

No attempt was made by the runners to stand their ground, officers reported. There was no resistance and there were no shots fired, they reported.

such incidents, Woodcock said, administration of the law safely and honestly and thus obtain greater respect and request to the state to enforce vigorously the law against such rackets.

Woodcock said killings of prohibition agents were more numerous now than ever before, and he is compiling figures to demonstrate this fact. He was at a loss to explain the cause of the increased killings.

Politics has nothing whatever to do with the present administration of the prohibition law or the selection of personnel, the director declared.

Woodcock returned today from a tour of the New England states where he said he was much impressed with the efficiency of the federal dry force and the co-operation being received from local officials.

He will leave Monday for Philadelphia, later going to Pittsburgh and Lewisburg, Pa., and completing his inspection of that district by visiting New Jersey next week. The week following he will inspect enforcement in Kentucky and Tennessee and in subsequent weeks will go to New York and Chicago.

an Arctic wilderness, the three men set out for an unknown goal.

Eight days later, on July 30, Andree wrote that the expedition had decided not to attempt to reach supply stations in Spitzbergen, but had headed for Franz Joseph Land. Their progress was painfully slow.

On August 4 the trio had reached 82:17 north latitude, 29:43 east longitude. Fifteen days of wandering had brought them only a few degrees south of the spot where their balloon had come down. Their food and other provisions were dwindling steadily, despite previous experience that had taught them how to make the best use of supplies in the frozen north. Fraenkel and Strindberg were suffering constantly from stomach trouble and bad teeth, aggravated by lack of proper food.

The explorers gave up hope of reaching Franz Joseph land. The hopeless battle against the northland seemed to engulf them slowly, although they joked with each other in an effort to keep up their courage.

As the food supplies became shorter the trio began to hunt polar bears and seals. Fraenkel was the chief cook, and the diary humorously observes that he made delicious "polar bear meat pancakes" which seemed very tasty to them at the time.

Davis, vocalist, and Anton Van Essen, cellist, of Long Beach, will give special musical numbers at the morning service and Harold Alexander of the Hollywood Gospel team will sing in the evening. Leland Green will play the vibraphone and congregational singing, led by the choruses, will be featured.

BUENA PARK, Sept. 20.—Sixty-five members of the Buena Park Y. M. C. A. groups and their fathers attended the father and son banquet in the social hall of the Congregational church Friday evening. The dinner was served by members of the Missionary society of the church.

Fred Bastady was toastmaster and the singing of group songs by the boys led by Archie Raitt, secretary of the Northern Orange County Y. M. C. A., was an enjoyable feature.

Harold Hurn told of "The Kind of a Father a Boy Doesn't Like," and Robert Thomas, "The Kind of a Father a Boy Likes to Have," and six fathers, Arthur F. Corey, J. H. Page, L. A. Fry, W. B. Shaw, Emanuel Bastady, and H. H. Hagarty, and six boys, Jack Lemke, Robert Thomas, Billy Dow, Franklin Sullivan, Laurence Robeson and Kenneth Story, participated in a stunt.

BACK TO HOME MOVEMENT IS GIVEN STRESS

Women are returning to the fire-side and family, government figures show, and the back-to-the-home movement will be celebrated throughout the United States by the National Home Furnishings Style Show to be held Sept. 26 to Oct. 4.

Renewed interest in the art of furnishing a home properly has been noticeable for some time, so much in fact that the furniture and allied industries decided to stage a national style show—the first in the history of their business.

Dealers in Santa Ana will join in the movement and all furniture stores will have open house for the public to view their exhibits. Latest designs in furnishings for the home will be arranged attractively in model room displays. Proper arrangement, style and color schemes designed to show the home furnisher how she can improve the looks of her home will feature the show.

That women are leaving offices and taking up the duties of homemaking, duties they deserted during and after the World War, is strongly indicated at the U. S. Bureau of Census. More marriages and fewer divorces were recorded last year in figures of more than half of the states.

In the average combined marriage rate last year for 25 states and the District of Columbia was 12.34 to 1,000 population, the figures showed, compared with 11 in 1928, while the divorce rate dropped from 2.88 to 2.55. The marriage rate gained in 20 states and the divorce rate decreased, while both the marriage and divorce rates increased in the District of Columbia.

The 1929 marriage rate for the 25 states and the District of Columbia was higher than any rate on record for the United States, a comparison of statistics showed.

Several of the most populous states, including New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania, have not tabulated their figures and the urban centers may show some change in these statistics. The marriage rate is always higher in agricultural sections than in city districts, and the divorce rate is always higher in the industrial centers than elsewhere.

Los Angeles county, center of the motion picture industry, and Wayne county, (Detroit), Michigan, the center of the automobile industry, reported the largest number of divorces in the figures tabulated. This is not a departure, however, from previous years, as these two counties and Cook county (Chicago), in Illinois usually report the largest number of divorces.

Every state has what is unofficially known as a "Gretna Green," but in 26 of the states in 1928 there were counties that had a marriage rate of more than three times that of the states in which they are situated.

The states covered by the early census figures are: California, Arizona, Michigan, Wyoming, Nevada, Wisconsin, Washington, Virginia, Vermont, Utah, South Dakota, Rhode Island, Oregon, North Dakota, New Mexico, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Nebraska, Minnesota, Maryland, Iowa, Florida, Delaware, Connecticut, Arkansas and the District of Columbia.

Court Notes

A complaint seeking payment through court order of a sum claimed to be due from the estate of J. A. Scott, was filed late yesterday in superior court by Mary Kadets, and was directed against the administrator of the estate, Charles D. Brown, public administrator. Mrs. Kadets alleged that under an agreement with Scott, who died last May, she was to receive $30 per month and board for herself and minor son, for duties and care as housewife and gardener.

Under the agreement, which it is alleged covered the period from Oct. 15, 1926, to June 1, 1930, there was an asserted due and unpaid balance of $1283, which is the sum sought in the action.

The Bank of America of California filed two quiet title actions in superior court today. One concerning 12 lots in Santa Clemente was directed against Marion J. Melhorn et al. The other named Regina Benno et al as defendants, and concerned 16 lots in the Spanish village.

CRISIS PASSED AFTER PAINFUL POISON ATTACK

Mrs. Burt Williams, of Greenwood street, La Habra, is a victim of a black spider bite and for the past two days has been in a serious condition at her home, it was revealed today.

Although she is still suffering intensely from the poison, she is reported past the danger point by attending physicians.

The time of the bite was unknown to Mrs. Williams and the spider was unseen by her, but she is believed to have been bitten sometime Wednesday night, for her first discovery of the bite was made Thursday morning, when the small finger of her left hand became numb and very painful. The pain began moving up her arm and she consulted a physician, who lanced the finger three times.

Before her return home from the doctor's office she began having severe pains in her limbs and joints and immediate action was taken to save her life. A very critical night was spent Thursday, after which the physicians said much of the danger had passed.

The poison has caused the patient to break out with a thick white rash.

According to physicians, death comes almost invariably within 14 to 28 hours after a bite by this type of spider.

REGISTRATION PROMISES BUSY SEASON AT 'Y'

Advance enrollment for the boys' classes in physical education at the Y.M.C.A. give promise of a busy season. The new schedule will go into effect on Monday afternoon, and according to Physical Director R. R. Russick, it will offer the boys a complete innovation in gymnasium work.

Departing from the old custom of general gymnasium classes for all boys, Russick is offering this year special courses in which each boy may enroll on the line of his personal interest. In each class there will be sufficient general instruction to keep the boys' development symmetrical, but the special emphasis will be put on the work about which the interest centers.

A class in elementary gymnastics is the most popular one thus far, as indicated by advance registration. The class in tumbling is almost as large. The class in gymnastics will specialize on apparatus work of a simple sort, attention being given to form and style and finish in performance, and Russick hopes to develop some first rate apparatus workers from it. The work in tumbling will start with simple somersaults, and proceed to more complicated feats, all of which are of great value to the growing boy in acquiring poise and grace as well as muscular development.

One of the most important classes, but one which does not so strongly attract boys, is the class in "corrective work," which is camouflaged under the name of "drill squad." In this course, Russick will undertake to straighten round shoulders, take the kinks out of curved spines, build up weak chests, correct knock knees, flat feet, big stomachs, and all the other minor deformities which are common to boyhood. He will make the course interesting by building the class into a regular drill team, with training in marching and running which will strongly appeal to the boys after they get started.

He is urging parents to encourage their boys to enter this class for the sake of the permanent value it will give in eliminating minor defects which may become serious later in life. He will give personal and individual attention to the harder cases, and will co-operate with parents in getting the boys to grow straight and strong.

Other courses which are attracting the boys are the one in life saving, which is open only to good swimmers, and the one in swimming for beginners, in which a large number will be taught to swim.

The course in game coaching will be popular when the boys realize that in this class, Russick proposes to teach them how to play the various standard games in the best manner. Emphasis during the fall will be put on basketball, volleyball and indoor baseball, and careful instruction and coaching will be given.

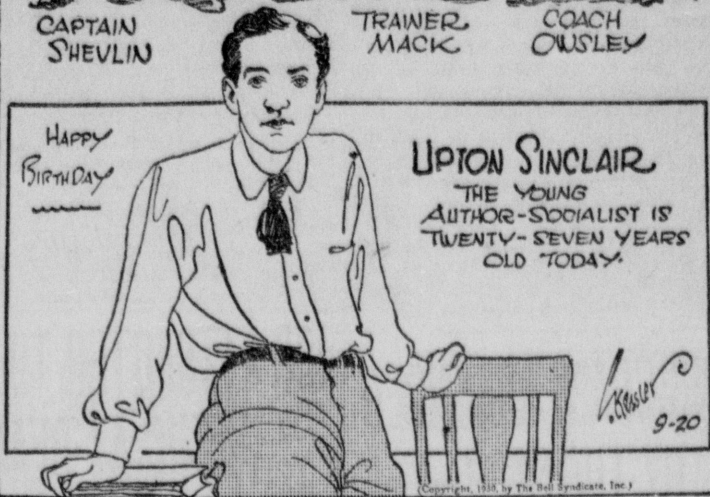

Monday's program includes the start of the tumbling class at 8:30 p.m., followed by the class in game coaching at 4. There is an hour for swimming for older boys, from 4 to 5, and a class for employed boys from 7 to 8. Edward Gaebbe will have charge of the employed boys' class, under the direct supervision of Russick.

Membership in the boys' department of the Y.M.C.A. is open to boys from 9 to 16 years of age, free of charge, and there are no extra charges for any of the classes offered for their benefit.

'GOLDEN RULE' EXPONENT IN BASTILE AGAIN

Tom Scanlon, 47, migratory worker, whose story of practicing the Golden Rule won him a suspended sentence when facing City Judge John F. Talbot yesterday morning on a drunk charge, on condition that he would leave the city last night on the same offense.

Scanlon was staging a little farewell party at the stockyards on the Finley property, to which he had invited W. P. YOUTHS JAILED AS LOOT FOUND IN SANTA ANA

A miscellaneous lot of merchandise, including two slot machines, one typewriter, and a limited quantity of cigars and cigarettes, believed to be goods stolen in a series of burglaries committed at different points in Fresno county and other sections, was uncovered yesterday afternoon at 611 North Barton street, Santa Ana, by Santa Ana and Fullerton police officers investigating recent activities of Ed Schenkey, 20, and Louis Zebik, 19, now being held by the Fullerton authorities in connection with robberies. The loot, brought to Santa Ana police headquarters for identification, represents an aggregate value of several hundred dollars.

Examination of the articles found at the Barton street residence revealed that the two slot machines, carried tags with Fresno addresses, are believed to have been taken from a roadhouse, located 30 miles north of Fresno.

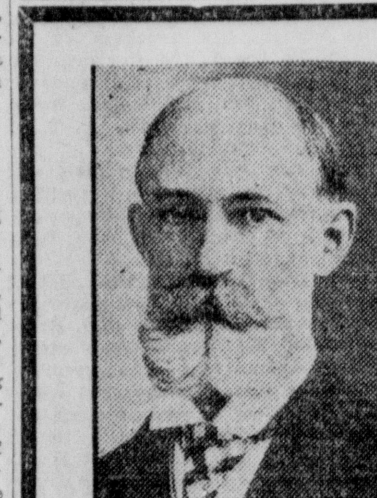

When the youths were picked up Thursday night by Fullerton police, after being chased by a police car, a small caliber pistol and a Jimmy were found in the seat of the car.

In addition to the two slot machines and a typewriter, the police found 25 shirts, 100 neckties, 3 handbags, eight pocket knives, and other articles.

MAN IS JAILED AFTER TAKING OFFICER'S GUN

Deputy sheriffs today were investigating the activities of Roy E. Brown, 22, Long Beach oil worker, who, after resisting arrest by Deputy Sheriff Robert E. Reed, fruit patrol officer on Irvine ranch, was taken into custody last night in Long Beach, and later transferred to the Orange county jail.

According to Floyd W. Howard, chief criminal deputy sheriff, Brown and his 14-year-old brother, Buster Brown, also residing in Long Beach, were discovered driving out of an orange grove on the Irvine holdings under circumstances that were suspicious. Reed, desiring to ascertain whether or not the youths had taken any fruit, attempted to question them. The officer was armed with a shotgun. The elder Brown snatched the weapon and making use of it, told the deputy sheriff to move on.

Reed phoned Horace Stevens at Tustin, who, informed of the road taken by the suspects, located them on the state highway and gave chase. On discovering that they were followed, the elder Brown jumped out of the car and disappeared. The automobile, driven by Buster Brown, was overtaken at Nineteenth and Flower streets, where the younger brother gave the officers information that led to the arrest of Roy Brown.

Orange Association Mails Growers $147,396.08

GOOD CROP IN COMING SEASON SEEN BY FINLEY

ORANGE, Sept. 20.—Net returns of $147,396.08 were made to growers of the Orange Mutual Citrus association today, the returns being the proceeds of Valencia shipped in pool No. 2 which was opened July 1 and which closed on August 15, according to L. F. Finley, manager of the association.

The net average on a packed box of this pool was $5.14 and the net average per field box was $3.41. The pool contained 62 cars.

Prices received by growers of the association this year were even better than those received for the crop of 1928, which was a similar crop to that of the present year.

Prospects for next year are very good, Finley declares, and from present indications the crop will be heavier than the crop of 1927, when 7000 more cars of oranges were shipped from the state than ever before until the bumper crop of small sizes of 1929 shattered all previous records.

Next year's crop will not equal that of 1929, Finley believes, although conditions now point to larger sizes than those grown that year.

ORANGE MEN HOME FROM EASTERN TRIP

ORANGE, Sept. 20.—Guy Richards and A. W. Townsend returned yesterday from New York and other eastern points, making the trip in the interests of the California Orange association, for which they have exclusive rights in the United States and Canada. They report a most successful trip in the interests of their company and state that they received co-operation from the leading retailers of oranges in the country.

Richards says that while business conditions in the east seem to be on an upward trend, there are many men out of work in all of the large cities they visited. The country through which they passed is at present looking green, but the rains came too late to benefit the crops, Richards says.

Cities in which the two men spent some time were New York, Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Chicago and Kansas City.

The "foot race" was run by measuring all the feet of each team; again the Panthers won by one half an inch. The "relay race" was run by a team of four members, eating an orange, drinking a glass of water, eating four peanuts and eating a cracker, respectively. The "Panthers" carried off the honors of the meet by 11 points.

CANTANDO CLUB PATRON ROSTER TO BE LIMITED

"Not more than 300 persons will be able to obtain sustaining memberships in the Cantando club this year," Warren K. Hillyard, chairman of the men's chorus organization of Santa Ana said today.

Each one of the 60 active members of the club, is out this week to obtain his quota of five sustaining patrons. Already 120 of last year's patrons have renewed their membership, and a full list is anticipated.

The sustaining membership entitles the holder to four seats at each concert of the series. Charles Wollaston, secretary, receives all applications for sustaining membership.

Three concerts will be given this season. Hillyard stated that the club is strictly a non-profit organization.

"The feature soloist at each concert of course receives a fee, also the accompanist of the club," he pointed out. "The musical director receives an honorarium for the season's work, at the discretion of the board of directors. All other appointments are honorary positions."

"The 60 active members of the club attend regularly every Monday evening, and practice earnestly for a period of three months prior to each concert. The result of co-ordination of effort, on the part of Leon Eckles, the able director, and each of his singers, when presented in public, requires little or no apology. Indeed the splendid support and appreciation given our productions afford us much inspiration for more artistic and more ambitious effort, than ever before attempted by the club."

"There is something—more than just the group singing—something fine about the club; some spirit of comradeship that draws our members together. A community enterprise that represents amongst its members Santa Ana, Orange, Tustin, Garden Grove, Anaheim, and Huntington Beach, in my opinion, justifies its position in the Santa Ana community life, and is worthy of every support. In fact I feel that the club deserves almost all the nice things that were written about its last concert, by the editor of the Pacific Coast Musician, in its issue of May 24."

Plans for Armistice day were under discussion, and the Legion will enter a float in the parade at Anaheim. The first selection made was Colorado, and second, Missouri, the states of the union to be the motif of this year's pageant.

DUST IN HOME HARBORS HOST OF MICROBES

Dust and germs blown or tracked into Santa Ana homes, may be regarded as a potential source of disease, according to recent findings of scientists at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In their research work bacteriologists of the department of public health of this institution, examined vacuum cleaner bag dirt, taking samples from homes in and near Boston. In one gram or approximately one thimbleful of vacuum cleaner bag dirt, they found as many as 5,000,000 germs, among them the dangerous streptococci, which authorities believe to be the primary cause of infection in scarlet fever, broncho-pneumonia, meningitis and which has been found as secondary infection in pulmonary tuberculosis, septic diptheria, smallpox, etc.

As soon as the research workers realized the infectious nature of the dirt they were handling in vacuum cleaner bag tests, they provided themselves with masks and took other precautions to avoid infection when emptying the cleaner bags.

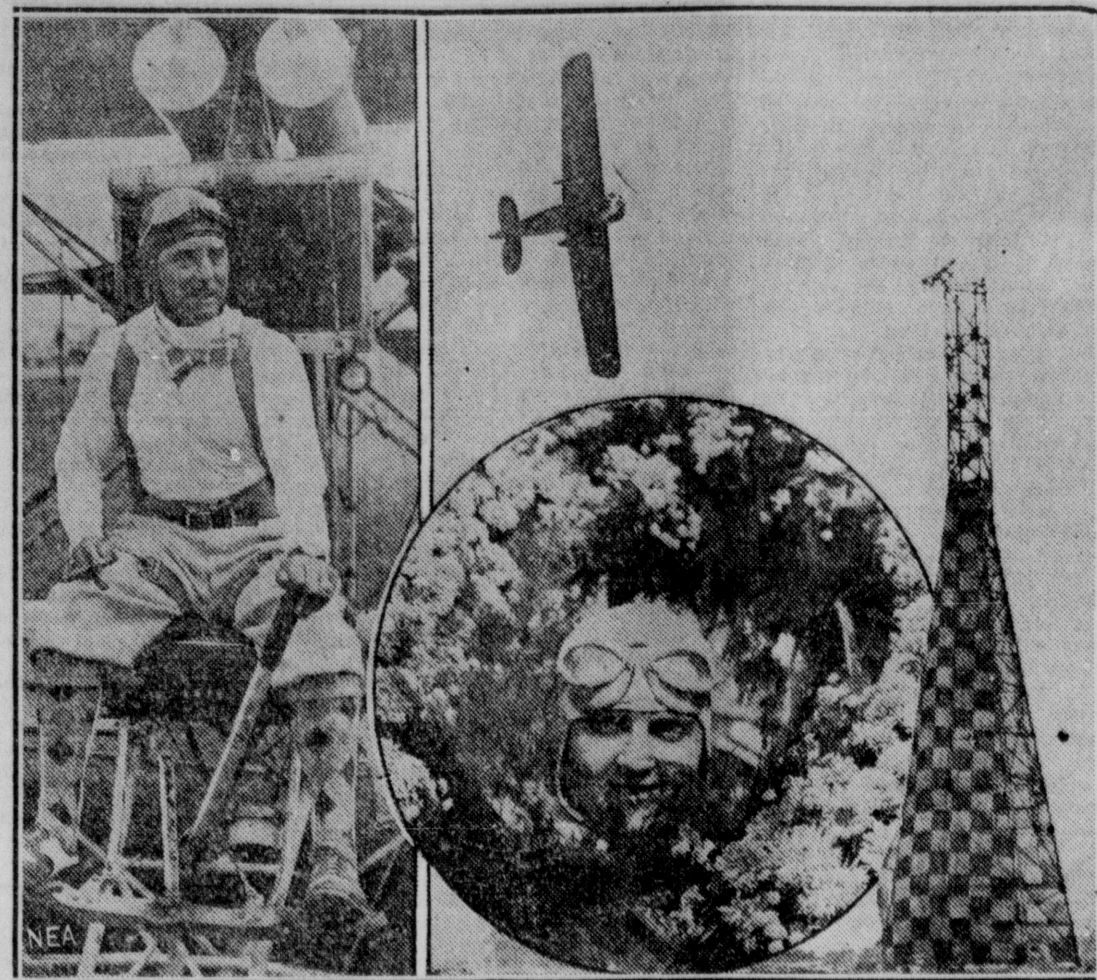

Discussion of this report will be an important feature of the district convention of Air-Way dealers which will be held on September 26, at Mt. Lowe tavern, Mt. Lowe. Members of the Air-Way branch of Los Angeles will attend, having won the honor by sales accomplishments during July and August. The member of the local branch who will attend is C. A. Pister.

OLD AND NEW AT THE AIR RACES

NOSE RUBBING IS PREFERRED TO HANDSHAKE

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(INS)—Rubbing noses will take the place of the usual French hand-shaking in the future, if Georges de la Fouchardiere, well known columnist of "L'Oeuvre" has anything to do with it.

Hand shaking is not an exchange of courtesies, contends the Frenchman, it is only a big nuisance which does not flatter, merely annoys.

"We've got to get away from it," writes Mr. de la Fouchardiere, "especially in hot weather, because there are people who have hands as soft as jelly or dry and hard like a monkey's hand, or viscous and frigid as a snake. Then there are more who have cold and dampy 'fishy' hands."

"Why grab a fellow-human by the hand and wring it or squeeze the flimsy bones through the skin? Why? I ask you if rubbing noses wouldn't be much better, a much less barbarous fashion. Everyone knows that men hate to come into contact with each other. They won't drink from the same glass, they detest sitting in an already warmed seat, they hate to rub elbows or knees.

"And yet politeness demands that a hundred times a day, more or less, and usually more in France, the rite of the handshake be fulfilled, despite our repugnance. The nose doesn't usually get into so many places as the hand, so let it be down with handshake and on with nose-rub, from now on."

Frank Aguirre, 16, of Casa Blanca, Riverside, was arrested by Chief of Police Williams, of Brea, and held on investigation in connection with alleged burglary.

Edna A. Alton, 40, furniture saleswoman, 204 North Electric street, Alhambra, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Anaheim police and lodged in the county jail, where she was booked on a check charge.

No details were available regarding the arrest and detention of Stella Hernandez, 20, waitress, 111 1/2 Fifth street, Corona, who was taken into custody by Assistant Jailor W. Hunter Leach for the Oceanside authorities. After spending several hours in the county bastille, she was released.

DOCTORS CLAIM PARROT FEVER IS INCURABLE

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(INS)—Post-tacosis, or Parrot Fever, which has caused an alarming number of deaths within the past year has no cure. It is caused by a microbe, perhaps a virus and perhaps bacterial. A 2000-power microscope fails to reveal it. This is what the celebrated scientists reported at the Congress on Microbiology which has been holding meetings at the Pasteur Institute in Paris recently.

Dr. Thomas M. Rivers, of the Rockefeller Institute of New York, said that he had succeeded in producing parrot's disease in monkeys, mice and rabbits. He also succeeded in carrying the bacillus from mice to rabbits and parrots. Although Dr. Rivers' assistant, Dr. Berry, took extraordinary precautions during the experiments, he contracted the fever, the germ penetrating a special mask, rubber and leather hood, gloves encased by thick leather gauntlets and knee-high rubber boots.

At the same meeting of the Congress, an American woman, Dr. Alice Evans, discoverer of Malta fever infection from cattle, won great applause when she read her paper pertaining to Herpes-virus and Vaccine-virus, used to immunize against small-pox.

OLD PIONEERS ASK STATE FOR FINANCIAL AID

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Sept. 20.—They pioneered the Mother Lode for gold—and failed!

Now, bent with the burden of years, their twilight of life finds solace in the respectful charity of a state which they knew as a frontier outpost.

This tragic reminder, coming as a dim echo of California's bountiful days of gold, was read recently in the voluminous file of applications under the state's new law of offering a pension to the needy aged.

More than 7000 appeals for the pittance of $30 a month allowed under the law were stacked in that pathetic file in the offices of Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, director of social welfare. Some of them were written in the informal scrawl of "covered wagon babies"—those who came to the Golden State in early childhood, their parents seeking nuggets at the end of the Mother Lode rainbow.

One of them—a pioneer woman whose identity the state hesitates to reveal—wrote: "I am going on 84 years old, and can't do much work any more. "I have worked hard all my life—came to California in 1852 in a covered wagon. Left Missouri the first day of March and arrived in Sacramento August 22, so you can see I'm a real pioneer. But if you saw me you would not take me to be more than 60 years old. Glad to know I will get help, for I need it."

The pride of old age in accepting state charity was reflected in other letters. One of these voiced the embarrassment of a woman 76 years old.

"I want to thank the state for its thoughtfulness which has had the effect of lessening my sense of humiliation," she wrote. "I am sure that this will not be needed long."

There was a tragic wistfulness, loneliness and a hint of fear for their future in between the lines of most of the scrawled applications for state aid.

"We would not ask for help, except that a storm caused the loss of our home and everything in it," was the appeal of a 75-year-old applicant.

Their pride still high, all of these unfortunates, humiliated in their plight, hoped for "something to turn up" that would enable them to discontinue receiving state charity.

REGULATION OF SUBDIVISIONS IS DISCUSSED

The proposed subdivision ordinance formulated by the county planning commission was discussed from various standpoints at the meeting of the Orange County Engineers club held last night at St. Ann's inn.

Nat Neff, president of the Engineers' club, was in charge of the meeting and after opening it turned the session over to Clyde Jenken, city engineer of this city.

In the absence of George Wells, chairman of the Santa Ana planning commission, Mrs. R. A. Cushman, secretary of both the Santa Ana and the Orange County planning commissions, gave the address of welcome.

Detailed discussions of the proposed ordinance were given by Dr. W. L. Eigham, chairman of the county commission and W. K. Hilliard, county surveyor.

S. H. Woodruff, of Dana Point, talked to the engineers and planners on the ordinance from the standpoint of the sub-divisor. A general discussion by the engineers followed.

Neff suggested that persons interested in the proposed ordinance send written criticisms to the board or be present at the hearing on the ordinance at the court house October 2.

A musical program was presented by the Girls' Glee club of the Santa Ana exchange of the Pacific Telephone company.

SAYS NARCOTIC ADDICTS COST U. S. MILLIONS

DENVER, Sept. 20.—(INS)—America harbors one-half million dope addicts, which cause the United States an annual economic loss of one billion dollars, according to Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, U. S. navy, retired, hero of the Merrimac and world leader of two extensive organizations that he has sponsored to check narcotic traffic.

"The world war against the dope evil is approaching a crisis," Captain Hobson said while in Denver recently. "Education on the evils of narcotics is needed to arouse public sentiment in this country and Europe. We already have two international pacts for suppression of the traffic, but they are not enforced in fifty factories in Europe for the manufacture of narcotic derivations."

Captain Hobson was the originator of the International Narcotic Education association and the world conference on narcotic education, with headquarters in Los Angeles, New York, and Geneva, Switzerland. A world meeting will be held next July in Geneva and directly after this there will be a meeting on the same subject under the auspieces of the League of Nations. Captain Hobson looks to these two sessions to do much toward curtailing the traffic which for the present has assumed gigantic proportions.

Use of heroin is the most common dope habit, according to Captain Hobson who accounts for its popularity because of its almost instantaneous effect upon the brain. It stimulates and flattens the ego and gives the craze for daring deeds, which often culminate in criminal action. Crimes that arise from this stimulus often are of the most brutal sort insofar as the criminal feels no pity for the suffering of his victim.

ANNOUNCE IMPROVED L. A. MAIL SERVICE

A new mail service to Los Angeles will be inaugurated here next Monday according to an announcement by L. F. Harvey, superintendent of mails at the Santa Ana post office. The mail will leave here at noon. Deposits for this departure may be made until 11:30 a. m. and special delivery letters will be accepted until 11:45 a. m., Harvey said.

The new schedule will improve the service by two hours, the former time having been 9:45 a. m. The mail will be carried by stage via Long Beach.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Patriotism and World Brotherhood

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 21. Patriotism and World Brotherhood. Jonah 3:1-5, 10; 4:1-11. By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of The Congressionalist

The general lesson title gives our theme as "Jonah, the Narrow Nationalist Rebuked."

The book of Jonah for many years has been so much the ground of controversy that controversy has been the most part missed its meaning. If we could disabuse our minds of the question of literalness and read it as we read the Parable of the Good Samaritan or the Parable of the Prodigal Son, we should be in a way to perceive the depth and richness of its teaching. It is, as a matter of fact, the place in the Old Testament where religion attains its highest point.

In the midst of narrow conceptions that would limit the operations of religion to those of one's own nation or of one's own group, we come in this book upon the conception of a religion that is broad and beautiful in its comprehensiveness.

A Narrow Nationalist

In the prejudice of Jonah, in his unwillingness to go to Nineveh to preach his message of mercy, and in his anger when the message attained its purpose, and Nineveh was not destroyed, we have set before us in a very striking way the elements of the narrow religion of nationalism or the narrow nationalism of religion. Jonah was very much like most of us, filled with prejudices that it took a great deal of grace to overcome.

It seems strange that a man would not wish to have the results of his religion mission attained, but what happened in Jonah's case has been by no means an isolated thing. How often in the community a church has closed its doors against the very persons whom its Gospel was designed to reach? How often the narrow spirit of sectarianism has created divisions and hostilities in the church so that men and women of devout life have been refused admission to church fellowship or have been expelled from particular groups because their views did not happen to accord with the views of others?

The applications of the Book of Jonah are many, and they can be made in almost every community if not in almost every life.

Over against Jonah's narrowness of God's mercy. It was a profound discovery of the great soul who wrote this book. How did he come to that conception of God? What was it that had revealed to him such spiritual truth as those around him could hardly appreciate? What but the communion of truth and the quest of a pure and sincere soul?

To know God in that way is to become godly. Really to believe in His love and mercy is to become loving and merciful ourselves. The profession of belief in a God of love is a mere profession unless that love has laid hold of our lives and transformed them.

This Book of Jonah has been called the first great book of foreign missions. Certainly the essence of a missionary religion and a missionary gospel is found within its pages. One cannot think of God, who is a God of the whole world who loves all races of men, without an impulse to make him known throughout the whole realm where his children live. The lack of faith of many in the church in the worldwide work of the Gospel indicates that they have never come to perceive the truth which a book like this was designed to declare.

The preponderance of the fish story in many minds has prevented their seeing the real meaning and teaching of the book. The question in relation to that story is not that as to whether a miracle could or could not happen. That has really nothing to do with the profound and deep teaching of the book. It is only when we spiritualize the book and read it with a spiritual eye that we are in the way of discovering its truth.

A High Point of Vision

And a man who has once perceived its depth and its height can never again think of this Book of Jonah without reverence and thankfulness. As it marked in Israel the high point of religious vision and magnanimity, so it marks still a plane to which many of us have not yet attained.

To what great heights man can rise, and what higher planes are ever before him, when the measure which he applies to his thoughts and aspirations is the measure of the love of God.

For the love of God is broader Than the measure of man's mind And the soul of the eternal Is most wonderfully kind.

A genius is a man who takes the lemons that Fate hands him and starts a lemonade stand with them.—Elbert Hubbard.

The Church Invites You

WHY BELONG TO CHURCH?

Daniel Poling says, "I ought to belong to the Church because I ought to be better than I am. Henry Ward Beecher once said, 'The church is not a gallery for the exhibition of eminent Christians, but a school for the education of imperfect ones.'"

"I ought to belong to the Church because of what I can give to it and do through it, as well as because of what I may get out of it. The Church is not a dormitory for sleepers, it is an institution of workers; it is not a rest camp, it is a front line trench."

Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

—D. Carl Yoder.

An anonymous gift of $425,000 has been received toward the erection by the Presbyterians of a magnificent national church in Washington, D. C., according to a recent announcement.

Dr. Cleland Boyd McAfee of Chicago, former moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly has accepted the post of secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions and will begin his duties this fall.

St. John's Lutheran church, Lykens Valley, Pa., recently celebrated the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of its founding. The church has served many generations of descendants of original German Lutheran settlers.

The 900th anniversary of the establishment of Christianity in Norway was recently celebrated. The death of King Olaf in 1030 fixes the date, since records prove the king announced the acceptance of Christianity.

The statue of the Virgin before which the heroine Joan of Arc prayed in 1429 before going on her mission, has been returned to the newly restored chapel. For the past two centuries the statue has been preserved in the parish church of Vaucouleurs. Elaborate ceremonies attended the transferring of the statue to its former site.

Religion and our Public School Education

The committee of superintendents of the National Education Association, has included as one of its four major objectives, "To promote the development of an appreciation of the force of law and of love that is operating universally." Interpretation of this objective, the committee makes the following comment:

Man craves more than a knowledge of himself, of nature and of organized society. He hungers and thirsts after righteousness. Knowing his own imperfections, he feels that somewhere there is perfection. The great universe calls to his spirit and unless he ignorantly or willfully closes his ears, he hears the voice of God.

No greater task rests upon the secondary school than to help its pupils to find their God. How this is to be done is the greatest of problems. Of one thing only are we sure: we cannot solve this problem by ignoring it. There is no single way to apprehend infinity. Each in his own way may draw near.

Mistakes of an Unprepared Teacher

At the last moment the superintendent of a Sunday school insisted on a lady teaching a class of boys whose regular teacher was absent. She was not prepared to teach the lesson, so conceived the plan of teaching Bible facts by the question and answer method, she supplying the answer with the understanding that when she had gotten round the class with a question and answer for each member of the class, she would conduct a review by asking each one the same question.

The first boy was asked the question, "Who made you?" to which he was led to answer, "God." The second boy was asked the name of the oldest man and was given the answer to be remembered, "Methusalem." Similar questions were asked each boy, then the teacher started the review with the first question, not realizing that the first pupil had slipped out of the room. By mistake therefore she asked the second boy, "Who made you?" to which he replied, "The boy that God made has gone out."

What are the objects of a Sunday school rally day?

It has been well said that the object of rally day is four-fold: first vivifying the members of the school; second, the enrollment of new members; third, creating an interest in the school in such individuals as may not be lined up with the Christian program; fourth to instill new enthusiasm in the workers of the school.

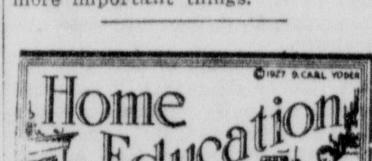

How secure the best return of a Sunday school rally day? To secure the best return, it is necessary to decide upon definite objectives; have well chosen committees with definitely outlined plans to carry out objects which have been agreed upon; three very important committees are the program committee which will assist the general chairman arrange an attractive and helpful service for the day with proper follow-up programs; an invitation committee that will see to it that all old members are present and others who would naturally belong to the school urged to be present, particularly parents who have children in the school; a decoration committee who will make the place of meeting most inviting; a publicity committee that will use the public press to the best advantage with other aids such as personal letters, window cards, bill boards and the telephone; a welcome committee will add much to the pleasure of the day, making everyone feel happy they attended; a transportation committee, providing ways of attending the service is important and finally a follow-up committee to conserve results.

Such a spirit of welcome and helpfulness is eminently right and fitting—in these busy days of tense rush and commercial struggle certainly there should be one place where the world weary may seek the peaceful surroundings and friendly interest that permits communion with the soul and inspiration to thoughts of higher and more important things.

A Habit or an Incident

Some sharp-tongued persons are quick to call our attention to any blunder that we have committed, any unrighteous word or ugly deed. They pounce on it as a cat pounces on a mouse and cannot speak quickly enough with words of censure.

A wise person will avoid such fault finding and will first consider whether it is necessary and a duty. He will decide whether the blunder was habitual or an incident and whether the offender is conscious of the blunder and will likely be so ashamed of it as not to allow it to happen again.

FIGURES SHOW GROWER COSTS IN SOUTHLAND

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Following is a talk given over radio KREG, September 15.)

BY F. R. WILCOX
Division of Agricultural Economics, University of California

Agriculture has come to be a business. Particularly in the southland, where specialized crops occupy a major position and where many commodities are turned out in more or less of a machine like fashion. It is a well known fact that failures are not uncommon in business undertakings. The business of agriculture has no immunity from this calamity. Why all cannot succeed or why there are at least varying degrees of success, seems to depend upon two factors: First, natural conditions, which are unlike from section to section. Second, individuals acting as managers and workers vary in their capabilities of handling the natural resources.

Sooner or later every enterprise attracts more people to its field than it can successfully support. When this stage is reached, competition begins its work of weeding out the marginal producers. Without attempting to paint a black picture for the walnut industry in California, it seems from the available information that competition will be somewhat more active in the future than it has been in the past decade. The increased consumption of about 8 per cent since 1922 has made it possible to maintain a relatively high level of prices in face of increased production. These high prices have resulted in heavy plantings in various sections of the state. The Co-operative California Crop Reporting service estimates that there will be approximately 104,000 acres of bearing walnuts in this state by 1931. This represents a 45 per cent increase over the 1926 report of 71,750 acres.

With the increased acreage one of two things must happen, either the demand schedule will raise, which means that consumers must purchase this greater volume of product at the same average price, or second, the demand schedule will be lower, meaning that the grower will receive less per pound for his product. The latter is more likely to happen. This will necessitate more efficient and better quality production if the industry remains profitable. Competition will undoubtedly be more severe. Broadly speaking this competition may be divided into three groups. First, the competition between crops for the consumer's trade. In this connection we can not ignore the increasing production of other nut crops, particularly pecans and almonds. The second type of competition is that between different sections of the producing area. Varying natural conditions from place to place make production more or less favorable. We must recognize as one natural factor in the production of walnuts the effect of climatic conditions, both on quality and yield.

The following table is presented, not for the purpose of comparing counties, but simply to show the effect of climatic conditions on the above two mentioned factors. This information is obtained from actual cost records on sixteen orchards in Ventura county, sixteen orchards in Santa Barbara county and thirty-eight orchards in Los Angeles county.

Comparing San Joaquin data with Los Angeles and Santa Barbara counties for 1927, which are the only available figures for that year, tends to bear out the effect of coastal influence upon production. The average production per acre on 14 groves in the San Joaquin section was 1132 pounds as compared with 1935 pounds in the Los Angeles area, and 2380 pounds in Santa Barbara county.

To further illustrate this point the records in Los Angeles county have been classified to climatic conditions. For purposes of discussion they have been termed coastal and mid-coastal areas. Only seedling trees were used in this comparison. The coastal area had an average yield per acre of 820.9 pounds; 12.3 per cent of which were merchantable. The mid-coastal section yielded 856.4 pounds with 68.6 per cent merchantable nuts.

In comparing these districts it should be remembered that yield is only one factor in determining the success of an industry. Costs in certain of these high producing areas may offset the advantage obtained by high yields. The alternative opportunities may increase land values, water charges and other items of cost.

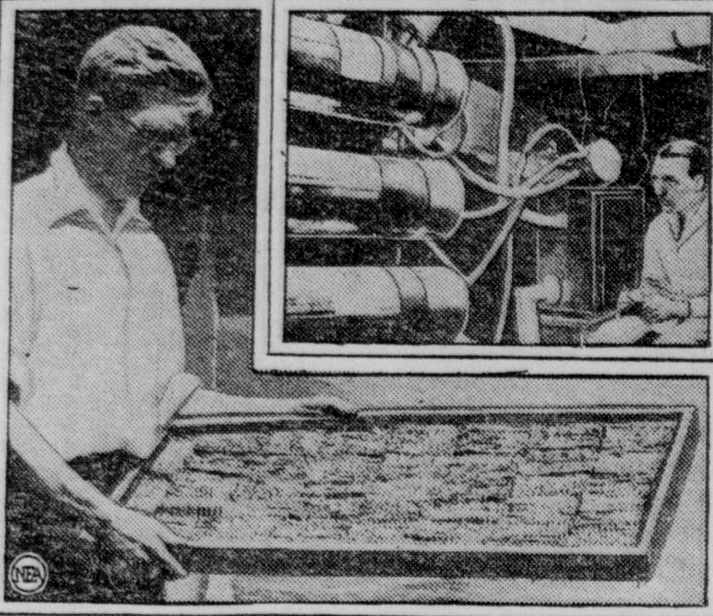

The following table gives an investment comparison per acre:

A second natural factor affecting walnut production as shown by cost studies is soil type. In the following table soil has been simply classified into two types, light and heavy. The figures show the same tendency for two years both in the effect of soil on yield and quality.

Soil Types	1927	1928
Light Heavy	Light Heavy	Light Heavy
Yield per acre, lbs.	1609	2225
Pct. culls	34.9	24.2
Moisture	28.3	28.6
acres	30.9	26.5

A third type of competition in the walnut industry has to do with the competition between individual producers working under similar natural conditions. The factors involved here are those that the individual can directly influence. Important among these is the type of stock. People familiar with the walnut industry have long realized the importance of proper root stock and better varieties of nuts. These two factors have not been analyzed from cost records kept during the past three years. However, the records have further stressed the importance of budding trees as shown in the table below.

Budded and Seedling Trees	1927	1928
Average age
Three (yrs.)	14.5	27.0
Lib. Merch.	15.16	1328
Present culls	14.5	33.1
	20.4	31.0

Regardless of the much younger trees in the budded acreage the yield of merchantable nuts for the past two years has been greater, resulting in a greater net return per acre. The lower per cent of cull nuts has also resulted in higher returns per pound.

In connection with the problem of trees is the correlation between age of trees and quality of product. In 1927 trees 4 to 11 years old in Los Angeles county produced 91.3 per cent merchantable nuts; trees 12 to 20 years old produced 85.4 per cent merchantable nuts. This same tendency to poorer grade nuts as the tree increases in age holds true in 1928. To hold the quality in aged trees it is necessary to keep the vigor and the general condition of trees above the average.

Cost records during the past three years have brought out some interesting results regarding at least two cultural practices, irrigation and cultivation.

There is no relation between the amount of water applied and quantity of product produced. We do find, however, a great difference in the amount of water applied to similar soils. The range in Los Angeles county in 1927 was from 22.75 to 53.89 acre inches. In 1928 this spread was from 19.53 to 48.56 acre inches.

In almost every case water as well as the cost of application is expensive. If these larger amounts applied have no beneficial effect on yield many growers may do well to consider this as one place for reducing costs.

In 1927 the Los Angeles county records were divided into low and high moisture groups, with the following results:

Comparison of Water Application	1927	Low Moisture	High Moisture
Moisture Acre in.	29.5	45.1	45.1
Yield Per Acre	1393	1346	1346
Pct culls not wormy	26.9	28.2	28.2

Average irrigation costs per acre in 1928 for three counties are as follows:

Investment Per Acre—1928	L. A.	S. B.	Ven.	S. Jo.
Trees	455.26	401.16	405.71	750.24
Imps.	37.05	81.64	46.47	48.04
Equip.	30.55	49.45	45.54	16.48
Land	1000.00	1000.00	1598.16	367.47
Total	1522.86	1532.25	2098.88	1182.23

Regarding cultivation practices, one realizes that there has been no one best practice adopted by growers generally. In 1927 Los Angeles county showed a range of from $4.15 to $32.49 per acre. In 1928 the cost range for this operation was from $3.70 to $24.30 per acre. These figures include only the actual cultivating costs. As in the case of irrigation the greater amounts of cultivation do not result in any increased yield and in many cases, due to the forming of a plow sole, the result is detrimental.

tal. Average cultivation costs per acre in 1928 for three counties are as follows:

Los Angeles	$ 9.90
Santa Barbara	13.34
Ventura	8.81

A reduction to even these average figures would mean a saving on many groves.

The accompanying chart shows cultivation practices on two groves of approximately the same age trees in Los Angeles county.

Comparison of Two Cultivation Practices	Soil Type	Type Medium Loam	Medium Loam
Cultivation Costs
Per Acre	$30.54	$4.15
Yield per A.	768	1448
January	Plow

April	Dbl. disc	Spr. tooth
May	Cultivate	Weed knife
June	Dbl. disc, harrow	Irrigate
July	Same	Irrigate
August	Same	Irrigate

Walnuts are not unlike most other agricultural products in that a high yield tends to reduce the cost per unit. In the following table there are 12 groves represented in each of the two columns listed "High Yield Groves," "Low Yield Groves," and 36 groves in the column listed "All Groves." The per acre costs on these same groups run rather uniformly with the exception of harvesting costs, which vary directly with yield.

University Cow Gives 891 Pounds Butterfat In Year

DAVIS, Sept. 20.—With 891 pounds of butterfat in one year, Rutgers Popsie Cutie, a Jersey cow owned by the University of California at the Branch of the College of Agriculture here, has won the highest medal award of the American Jersey Cattle club. She completed her test some weeks ago, according to Arthur Folger, superintendent of advanced registry tests, and last week dropped a heifer calf to qualify for the medal of merit.

The cow is six years of age, a daughter of Pennhurst Ferns Lass and sired by Popsie Torono Experiment. She was brought by Prof. W. M. Regan from New Jersey in the breeding experiment he has been conducting for a long term of years. She carries herself 50 per cent of the blood of her sire, has a daughter with 75 per cent and a granddaughter with 87.5 per cent.

APPROVE STATE QUARANTINE ON PESTS OF FRUIT

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 20.—California's quarantine policies and methods of excluding plant and animal pests are receiving the approval of several Latin American countries.

The latest endorsement was given by Alejandro Von der Heyde Garrigos and Julio Cesar Paldao, spokesmen for the Argentine delegation to the recent Pan-American reciprocal trade conference.

Von der Heyde Garrigos and Paldao, both prominent grape and fruit growers of Mendoza, Argentina, endorsed the California system after a study of several weeks and have informed George H. Hecke, state director of agriculture, of their approval.

In a joint statement, they said: "We had the impression that your quarantines were tariffs in disguise; that these quarantines were imposed on other countries as a commercial protection against imports. We believed that quarantine was an obstacle to reciprocal trade and a barrier to trade relations between the various countries of Pan-America."

"Since our stay in California, we have an entirely different viewpoint of quarantines. We wish to state now that we are in complete accord with the policies of California on quarantines. We know now that these quarantines have no relation at all to tariffs; that they are imposed only for the express purpose of excluding dangerous pests and diseases."

"Instead of being obstacles to reciprocity, we now believe that quarantines are an aid to reciprocity. We know that there will be a greater exchange of farm commodities between various Pan-American countries when the standardization of those commodities becomes uniform."

Paldao, vice president of the National Society of Fruit Culture of Argentina, and as is Von der Heyde Garrigos, a representative of the Export Grape Producers association of Mendoza and San Juan, announced he will return to Argentina to urge his country, and other South American nations, to adopt quarantine policies similar to California's.

Both men also suggested trained entomologists, skilled in pest control, be attached to every embassy, so as to keep each country informed of the progress of pest eradication and control.

Improved Cattle Conditions Seen

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16.—Economic conditions in the cattle industry are likely to improve in the next 12 months, according to the beef-cattle outlook report issued by the bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture.

"Market supplies of cattle in the next five or six months," says the bureau, "probably will be about the same as a year ago, but supplies of fed cattle during the first half of 1931 are expected to be smaller than in 1930. Demand for stockers and feeders this fall will not equal that of last year, and for that reason slaughter is likely to be somewhat greater."

"Prospects favor a continuation of low imports of both live cattle and calves and of fresh and frozen beef and veal. Consumer demand for beef probably will improve somewhat in the next six months with the advent of cooler weather, especially if there is an improvement in industrial activity. Prospects favor a material advance in cattle prices in the next 12 months."

'TIS LAST OF MANHATTAN'S ONLY FARM

New York's rush of progress is soon to wipe out the last bit of rural atmosphere on Manhattan Island, a farm which Patsy and Vito Benedeto cultivate at 213th street and Broadway. It is only a truck farm, but its panorama of waving corn and green foliage offered a rest to eyes which saw nothing but skyscrapers. Patsy, left; Carlos Mastrangelo, center, and Vito are shown here cultivating beans on the farm under the shadow of tall apartment houses and elevated subway.

GRAIN MEN OF STATE CONVE HERE SEPT. 23

Hundreds of grain growers from all counties south of Santa Barbara are expected at the farm advisor's office, Santa Ana, September 23. This will be the first occasion for a general meeting of the grain growers under the auspices of the agricultural extension service and the farm bureau. The local grain department, under the leadership of John Osterman, is responsible for arranging the program and getting the growers together for this sectional meeting.

A general invitation is sent by the grain growers' department to all those interested in attending. As several speakers are coming from the northern part of the state for this meeting and considerable effort expended in arranging a program of educational value, growers are urged to make every effort to attend.

Specialist Sees Material Advance In Cattle Prices

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 20.—A material advance in cattle prices during the next 12 months is predicted by George A. Scott, live stock statistician of the federal-state live stock office.

Market supplies of cattle during the next six months probably will be about the same as a year ago, according to Scott, but supplies of fed cattle during the first half of 1931 are expected to be smaller than in 1930. Demand for stockers and feeders this fall will not equal that of last year, and for that reason slaughter is likely to be somewhat greater.

"Prospects favor a continuation of low imports of both live cattle and calves and of fresh and frozen beef and veal. Consumer demand for beef probably will improve somewhat in the next six months with the advent of cooler weather, especially if there is an improvement in industrial activity. Prospects favor a material advance in cattle prices in the next 12 months."

Cut Dead Wood From Deciduous Trees Is Advice

Immediately after the fruit crop is harvested from deciduous fruit trees, such as peaches, apricots, etc., the broken branches and all dead wood should be removed by the amateur horticulturist, as the winter pruning operations can then be done more satisfactorily by the unskilled gardener. All cuts over an inch in diameter should be disinfected and painted with pruning wax, according to Eric E. Eastman, assistant farm advisor.

TERMITE DATA BEING SOUGHT BY COMMITTEE

In the work that the termite investigation committee is doing, information as to the swarming habits of the termites is needed, according to word received by W. M. Cory, acting farm advisor. This committee is studying the life cycle and habits of termites with the object of developing control measures. To get as complete a cross-section as possible, anyone observing any of the winged forms and bringing them to the farm advisor's office in Santa Ana, in as good condition as possible, will greatly aid the work of this committee.

Information on the following points is desired in connection with the insects collected.

1. Where were specimens taken?
2. At what altitude?
3. At what hour of the day?
4. What was the relation of the swarm to rains, or did artificial watering cause the swarm?
5. Were other swarms noted at the time?
6. Describe the weather and give the temperature at the time of swarming.

Early Day Farm Movie On Shelf

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—After nearly 10 years of effective service in the fight against bovine tuberculosis, "Out of the Shadows," one of the early educational films made by the U. S. department of agriculture, has been laid on the shelf. The last remaining copy of more than 40, once in circulation, has been withdrawn, battered, "ratty," and full of torn sprocket holes, and no more copies will be printed. "Out of the Shadows" has served its day, and its negative now goes into the archives of the department, with other old films honorably discharged from service.

No other film circulated by the department has made a record approaching that of "Out of the Shadows." It has been used in every anti-tuberculosis campaign waged since 1921 and has been shown in almost every rural community in the United States where dairy cattle are important. Released in 1921, 17 copies were put into circulation that year; in 1922, 12 more copies were put into circulation; and in 1923, as many more. In all, 42 copies have been released. These have been shipped into the field 1,644 times, bookings for a single copy frequently running several weeks.

Sixty-one copies of this film have been sold for use in foreign countries, including Uruguay, Belgium, Guatemala, the Union of South Africa, and Great Britain.

REFORESTATION

Reforestation agencies covered a total of 3117 acres in Oregon and Washington last year, according to the U. S. forest service.

FRUIT CROP OF STATE RANKING WITH LARGEST

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 20.—California's 1930 fruit crop is one of the most abundant in the history of the state.

This statement, referring to virtually every fruit crop grown in the state, is one of the two outstanding features of the latest federal-state crop report issued here by E. E. Kaufman and R. E. Blair, agricultural statisticians.

The other outstanding feature of the bulletin is that low prices have been brought on by large production and insufficient demand.

With the greater part of the peach crop now harvested, Kaufman and Blair have increased their estimates of the total production, raising it to 693,000 tons. Clingstone production is forecast at 482,000 tons and freestone at 211,000 tons.

No important changes in the apple outlook have developed in the past month, total California production for 1930 being estimated at 11,502,000 bushels, compared to 7,880,000 bushels last year and 13,105,000 in 1928.

The state's pear production estimate is still forecast at 227,000 tons, compared with 190,000 tons in 1929 and 224,500 tons the preceding year.

Grape production is estimated by the service at 2,078,000 tons, made up of wine grapes, 463,000 tons; table grapes, 423,000 tons; and raisin grapes, 1,192,000 tons. Despite disagreement in certain quarters, the service still estimates the total apricot production for this year at 209,000 tons.

As the almond harvest nears completion, a production of 12,500 tons is indicated, as compared to 4,600 tons last year and 14,000 tons in 1928. A crop of 31,000 tons is forecast for walnuts.

Prunes, with a state condition of 80 per cent of normal, will yield 234,000 tons. Plums, with harvesting well along, will total about 74,000 tons, as compared to 40,000 tons last year, 66,000 in 1928 and 57,000 in 1927.

The fig crop is estimated at 15,000 tons of dried and 6,000 tons of fresh fruit. An 85 per cent of normal crop is indicated.

BETTER PRICES PREDICTED FOR BEAN GROWERS

An inspection has been made of fields of limas and baby limas in all the different Southern California warehouse districts and the Tracy-Patterson baby lima district and crop estimate reports from all other central California baby lima districts have been received. Combining these reports, this year's production is estimated to be as follows:

Santa Barbara county, 50,132 bags regular limas; Ventura county, 545,579 bags regular limas; Los Angeles county, 23,000 bags regular limas; Orange county, 32,041 bags regular limas; San Diego county, 32,922 bags regular limas; all Southern California, including Lompoc district, 262,000 bags baby limas; all central California districts, 212,000 bags baby limas; total estimated number of field run bags, 974,974 regular limas; 475,000 baby limas.

These estimates compare with an actual field run production of around 965,000 bags of regulars and around 400,000 bags of baby limas last year.

Prospects two months ago were for a considerably larger crop production of dried beans in the United States this season than last year, but drought and other unfavorable weather has changed the situation decidedly. It is now certain that the total production of Michigan and New York state pea beans and of Colorado and New Mexico pinto beans will be considerably less than last year and these are the varieties that come first in total tonnage. Baby limas will show a moderate increase but regular limas and Great Northerns will produce but little more than last year. The European crop is reported light and the Oriental bean crop larger than last year. The much higher rate of tariff duty now in effect will tend to reduce importation of foreign beans and help the bean growers in the United States to secure somewhat better prices than would otherwise rule.

MILK CONSUMPTION IN STATE GAINING

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 20.—That inveterate "topper," the average Californian, has the milk man on the run.

Long an addict of nature's greatest combination of food and drink, he's munching and swallowing his way to a wealth of health at a rate of three-eighths of a ton of milk annually, and the end is not yet in sight.

There's no end to California's thirst for milk and appetite for milk products, the records indicate, and the gain in consumption, according to Director of Agriculture G. H. Hecke, is largely due to a consistent increase in already high quality ratings which has followed a decade of efficient regulation of the dairy industry of the state.

True, according to computations of Dr. M. E. McDonald, chief of the bureau of dairy control, that mythical person, the average Californian, consumes but 21.34 pounds of butter, 6.83 pounds of cheese and 3.72 pounds of cottage cheese a year, which is far short of the 760 pounds of milk allotted statistically to each state resident annually. But many gallons of milk are needed to produce butter fat with which to meet these per capita cravings, without considering the 3.23 gallons of ice cream, 1.14 gallons of market cream and 27.78 gallons of market milk taken to satisfy the inner man of each Californian resident every 12 months.

Market milk consumption alone accounted for 335,000,407 gallons last year, requiring the filling of 528,001,628 quart bottles. Market cream production ran to 7,047,524 gallons. The state also produced 72,805,560 pounds of butter and imported 21,734,644 additional pounds and brought in 23,625,530 pounds of cheese to supplement 10,075,249 pounds made in California.

No important changes in the apple outlook have developed in the past month, total California production for 1930 being estimated at 11,502,000 bushels, compared to 7,880,000 bushels last year and 13,105,000 in 1928.

The state's pear production estimate is still forecast at 227,000 tons, compared with 190,000 tons in 1929 and 224,500 tons the preceding year.

Grape production is estimated by the service at 2,078,000 tons, made up of wine grapes, 463,000 tons; table grapes, 423,000 tons; and raisin grapes, 1,192,000 tons. Despite disagreement in certain quarters, the service still estimates the total apricot production for this year at 209,000 tons.

As the almond harvest nears completion, a production of 12,500 tons is indicated, as compared to 4,600 tons last year and 14,000 tons in 1928. A crop of 31,000 tons is forecast for walnuts.

The fig crop is estimated at 15,000 tons of dried and 6,000 tons of fresh fruit. An 85 per cent of normal crop is indicated.

Orange county farm bureau members are being admitted at a lower price than the usual admission, and a number of them are to give two minute addresses from the stage on the meaning of the farm to the county.

The picture program has been arranged for the theater as near as possible with something that will be of interest to the farmer in general, including a "History of Orange County." In the form of a motion picture and which was taken in Orange county recently.

Speakers for the week will include farm bureau members from a number of the farm bureau centers of the county, including Anaheim, Fullerton, Orange and other places.

The speakers also are to make talks on why the farmer of Orange county is opposed to the Daylight saving law as proposed in California in the general elections of November.

POSTPONEMENT OF RATE DROP SEEN

BERKELEY, Sept. 20.—Endangering the favorite decision of the Interstate commerce commission carrying a heavy reduction in grain rates to various terminal shipment points in California, state grain producers face a possible postponement of this phase of farm relief by a petition of all western trunk railroads to the commission that the new rate ruling be postponed until a rehearing can be arranged, according to advices received by the California Farm Bureau federation from C. W. Sandburg, director of transportation of the National farm bureau.

The petition, entered by the western trunk line committee, and supported by the southwestern freight bureau, and the transcontinental freight bureau, asks that the I. C. C. order of July 1, 1930, become effective 30 days later, be postponed until January 1, 1931.

It is claimed by the railroad managers that new freight tariffs covering western grain shipment can not be compiled within time allowed. Argument to this petition will probably make the new rates non-operative, as far as farmers are concerned, on the bulk of the 1930 grain movement.

Designed to bring relief to agriculture in the west, the revision of grain rates under this ruling was estimated to result in a loss of revenue to the railroads of about $15,000,000 annually.

A. A. STAGG IS PICKED AS 'ALL-AMERICAN' COACH BY 15 WELL KNOWN MENTORS OF COUNTRY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg of the University of Chicago was named the "All America coach" in a national poll—the first of its kind ever taken—of high ranking football instructors, results of which were announced here today.

Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, and Glenn Warner of Stanford, received second and third honors.

Stagg, football's "grand old man," won most votes in the confidential poll which was made among 15 of the national outstanding college football coaches.

The Chicago coach has taught the game longer than any other man. He started to teach football 40 years ago when Rockne, now bald as an eagle, was a mere baby of two years. Stagg, now 63 years old, is continuing to hold his own against the field in this essentially young man's game.

Stagg is still well able to give his boys active demonstrations as how to pass, tackle, shake off would-be tacklers and cut out interference.

The voting was made on the basis of three characteristics, popularity as a coach, success in his work and his importance as a character builder.

Much of Stagg's fame has been won through his ability to produce winning combinations with material much inferior to that of his rivals.

Praise Rockne

Chief among coaches who are able to produce winning combinations is Knute Rockne. Famous for his "fighting Irish" Rockne has often spread terror in the collegiate football world with his Pullman car aggregations which it seemed, won as they pleased, and always wanted to win.

Rockne learned his football from Jesse Harper who was a Stagg protege.

Without a doubt the Warner system of football presents the most puzzling formations the world has known. It is the quiet and alert Warner who has been setting football fashions for some 35 years. Many critics of the game have said that "Pop" Warner has contributed more to football versatility than any other coach.

Bob Zupke of the University of Illinois was another coach to be highly ranked in the voting. Zupke, born in Berlin, came to the United States at the age of two years. He was an athletic youth but only a fair performer.

Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, won many votes. Yost unquestionably is one of the greatest characters ever identified with the game. In recent years he has given up active coaching and devotes most of his time to direction of Michigan's entire athletic program.

Bill Roper of Princeton is one of today's most prominent coaches who was also a great athlete in his younger days. Roper is a most positive personality. He has had his full share of criticism from varying sources but he has given Princeton some highly respected eleveners.

BOBBY LEAVES SPECTACULAR PLAYING TO OTHERS AS HE WARMS UP FOR TOURNAMENT

By FRANK GETTY

United Press Sports Editor

MERION CRICKET CLUB, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Leaving the business of par shattering practice rounds to the lesser lights at Merion, Bobby Jones is going very seriously about his preparations for the forthcoming amateur championship.

The Atlantan, who is seeking his fourth major golf title of the year, a record never before approached, is making no attempt at spectacular scoring but is attempting to bring his game back to that fine point of perfection which will ensure him eventual victory.

Unlike a year ago, when he burnt up the trying Pebble Beach course in practice only to be eliminated in the first round of match play, Bob is devoting himself assiduously to "pointing" for next week's championship. His scores—and casual opinions that he is off his game—mean nothing to him.

Jones admits that he wants to win the championship more than any other in which he ever has competed. If he can do so, he will be open amateur champion of the United States and Great Britain with no golfing worlds left to conquer.

Moreover, many of his friends in Atlanta will collect from Lloyd's the famous English insurance agency, at the odds of 50 to 1, laid last spring before he went abroad to triumph at Hoylake and Sandwich.

Always laconic and never inclined to discuss his chances in advance, Bob said last night that reports that he was not in the best physical condition were entirely without foundation.

"I'll be ready to go when they call my name on Monday," he said. "Aside from that I'm not making any predictions or promises."

No Game this Year Between Junior Highs

Decision to lessen the number of athletic contests at the two junior high schools in Santa Ana, and to call off definitely the annual Julia Lathrop-Frances Willard Junior high school football game this season, was reached at a meeting of coaches, principal and other school officials, held at the high school this morning.

A feeling that too much time is given coaching the "varsity" teams of the two schools in preparation for the annual game, together with the thought that too much rivalry is being shown between two schools, was given as the reason for not allowing the game this year.

More work inside the schools themselves is being planned for the year. The cause for cutting down of interschool athletics other than the annual football game, was decided on because of transportation troubles which have existed for some time, it was reported.

Coaches Ferris Scott, of the Lathrop school; Arnold Lund, of the Willard Junior high school; Coach Oliver of the High school, L. W. Archer and the principals of the two schools were present at the meeting.

HELEN WILLS MOODY IN NET PLAY TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—Helen Wills Moody was to appear in a second exhibition tennis match here this afternoon in an attempt to recoup a one-set defeat suffered yesterday at the hands of Allan Herrington, Hollywood amateur.

Mrs. Moody, making her first court appearance in some time, emerged on the short end of a 7-5 score in a practice contest with the strong film colony player, whom she will meet again today.

Another interesting exhibition was the doubles match won by Mrs. L. A. Harper of San Francisco, and George Lott of Chicago, over Marjorie Morrill of Deadham, Mass., and Gregory Mangin, New Jersey, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

John Van Ryn, Davis cup player, easily defeated Lyttleton Rodgers, the Irish star, 6-3, 6-4.

NEW GOLF COURSE AT BEACH OPENED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 20.—Formal opening of the new municipal golf links was held here today. President W. R. Osborn of the chamber of commerce made the dedication address, following which Mayor Bowen teed off the first ball. Playing with him in a four-ball game were Fred Brooks, originator of the idea of a municipal golf course; J. S. Lawsha, manager of the Huntington Beach company, and Walter N. Thompson, local superintendent of the Standard Oil company.

Cards Keep Up Winning Streak

TAKE PHILLIES 7-3: CUBS BEAT BRAVES IN 9TH

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Flashing down the home stretch with a stride like Man-of-War, the rollicking St. Louis Cardinals romped out in front in the National league today by two and one-half games. Playing that fighting game that swept them into the league lead they shot from behind and with a five-run rally in the seventh overcame the lead produced by two homers from the etick of Chuck Klein and rolled over the Phillies, 7 to 3. The Redbirds played brilliant ball, marked by four double plays.

It is all very sad for Brooklyn and Chicago but it doesn't look as though much could be done about it. Both the Robins and Cubs still have an outside chance but it just doesn't seem in the "cards." That St. Louis will crack against such mediocre opposition as the Phils and Reds, against whom they play their remaining eight games.

If Brooklyn should win all of its remaining seven games, the standing would then read:

Brooklyn W-91 L-63 Pct.1.591

In order to better such a performance the Cardinals would have to win six of their remaining eight games. If they did that the standing would be:

Brooklyn W-91 L-63 Pct..591

But the experts say it is very unlikely that either Brooklyn or Chicago will have a sustained winning streak.

The Cubs, while Brooklyn was idle, upset the Braves, 5 to 4, winning in the ninth after Gabby Hartnett doubled and "Long George" Kelly shot out a single. The Robins and Cubs are now tied in second place.

Bill Walker held the Cincy Reds to two safeties and the Giants horse collared to win, 7 to 0. Ott homered for the Giants.

"Pinky" Hargrave, Detroit cast-off, leg the Senators in a hit foray and Washington crumpled the Tigers 8 to 4. The victory assured the Senators of second place in the American league.

Scoring seven runs off Danny McFayden in the first two innings, Cleveland downed Boston 7 to 5 and took a clinch hold on fourth place.

Babe Ruth was almost helpless as the Yankees overwhelmed the White Sox, 18 to 9, gathering 21 safeties. Ruth was up six times and the best he got was a scratch single. Lou Gehrig garnered four hits and moved away from Al Simmons, his chief rival in the race for American league batting honors. Today's figures show Gehrig hitting .388 and Simmons .375. Unless Gehrig slumps badly in the six remaining games of the Yankees he will be the hitting king of the league for 1930.

Other clubs were not scheduled.

California Will Employ Shift In Grid Attack

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 20.—Major innovations in the University of California's football style this fall are the introduction of a modified shift which embodies the line shift used last year, plus a backfield maneuver, and head coach C. M. "Nibs" Price's plan for two teams, both rated as varsities.

To observers of Golden Bear football fortunes, Price's plan is looked upon as a manifestation of his confidence in the material for 1930. The California mentor has seasoned veterans for every position in the line and backfield.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

HOME RUN TALK

The sports pages these days are full of home run talk. Joe Hauser, big league castoff now playing with the Orioles in the International league, has surpassed Babe Ruth's mark of 60 homers for the season. Down south, Jim Poole, who also had his fling in the big leagues, has been belting them right and left. Hack Kilson comes forward in the national league with a grand effort to pass Babe's record.

In both major leagues new home run totals have been reached. The National, as usual, still leads in the matter of four-base blows.

Fans have started to ask a thousand questions. Every time two fans get together, there is an argument. Maybe the National League pitchers are not up to the class of those in the American. Maybe the sluggers in the National are more vicious than the batsmen in the other league. The ball may be a trifle livelier in the National League than that used by the American.

DENY BALL HOPPED UP

The Shibles of Philadelphia, who make both American and National league balls in, will argue that it is exactly the same method, even on the same machines, deny the ball is any livelier. But whether or not the ball has been coked up, the fact is that baseball play has changed radically in the last 10 years.

Seldom these days do you see infielders playing close in the effort to cut off a run at the plate. One or two runs at the plate do not mean much any more. Besides, there is the liability of being killed by a batted ball.

The answer is hard to find, but the fact is that home runs have increased to a point where they are the common topic of discussion among the fans.

Larry Doyle, who led the National league in batting 15 years ago with a mark of .320, lays the increased hitting to the frequency with which brand new balls are put into the game by the umpires. Every time a foul is struck, a new ball goes into the game. Soiled or discolored balls are inspected frequently during the course of a game and thrown out. The batter usually has a nice white shiny target to swing at.

STANDARD DELIVERIES

Another cause for the increase of hitting that many of the old-timers give is the absence nowadays of freak deliveries and doctored balls. The spitball has been banned. Tampering with the ball is forbidden. Roughening of the sides to give the ball more wind resistance and cause it to take a peculiar curve also has been ruled out.

Perhaps all these causes combine toward the abundance of healthy hits. I have heard many fans and writers express the wish to see an old-time, spitball game. Others say that is all for the books, and base that is more thrilling now than ever by reason of the increased hitting. Certainly this latter group has baseball attendance figures to back the claim. Some day the game may become home run or no count. Glancing at the steadily mounting totals on the sports page, you might think so.

SENATORS WIN 2ND PLACE IN AMERICAN

The Washington Senators today had clinched second place in the American league race. The Senators assured themselves of the runner up position Friday by defeating the Detroit Tigers 8 to 4. They can now lose all seven of their remaining games and still finish in front of the New York Yankees even though that club would make a clean sweep of its remaining six contests.

Alvin Crowder hung up his 18th win of the season as the Senators triumphed over Detroit, 8 to 4.

The Yankees hit any and everything to pound out an 18 to 9 win. Lou Gehrig hit his 40th homer of the season in the game.

In the only other American game the Cleveland Indians clinched fourth place by defeating the Boston Red Sox 7 to 6. The Indians scored all their runs in the first two innings off Danny MacFayden.

TEXAS BOY, 18, LEADS FIELD IN ST. LOUIS OPEN

By LELAND L. CHESLEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20.—Ralph Guldhall, 18-year-old Dallas, Texas, golfer, led a field composed of the nation's best professionals and a group of hard hitting middle western amateurs, as play began today in the second 18-hole round of the $10,000 St. Louis Open golf tournament.

Guldhall had a sparkling score of 66, six under par, over the course yesterday, shooting six birdies. This is the first important tournament.

S. E. Cooper, Chicago, and Tommy Armour, went over the course in 67 while Horton Smith went around with a 70.

Wild Bill Mehlgorn, who equaled the course record of 64 during practice play Thursday, turned in an 81 for the course yesterday.

Ed Dudley, Chicago, and Abe Espinosa, Medinah, Ill., both turned in scores of 69. Others going over the course under par were: Harold McSpaden, Kansas City, 70; Frank Moore, Henderson, Ky., 71; Art Andrews, Davenport, Ia., 71; Bob Peebles, Chillicothe, Ill., 71; Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, 71.

Gene Sarazen went around with a 73 while Johnny Farrell turned in a 76.

Walter Hagen, who was unable to finish his first 18 holes yesterday because of darkness, will complete the round today with a score of 60 for 16 holes. Hagen has a good chance of finishing the round in the sixties.

Those covering the 18 holes in par 72 were: W. Gilbert, Topeka; Jack Wemler, Memphis; Ed Stokes, Denver; Neil White, Topeka; B. Montrosser, Rockford, Ill. Players going around with 73 were: Walter Blevins, Glencoe, Ill.; Jack Grount, Fort Worth; Haydon Newton, Springfield, Mo.; E. S. Beck, Lincoln, Neb.; Charles Garinger, Indianapolis; Ky. Laffoon, Joplin, Mo.; C. E. Clark, Tulsa.

TUSTIN LOSES FIRST TILT TO MONROVIA 12-0

Forward passes that took them to within striking distances allowed the Monrovia high school football team to trounce the Tustin Union high school eleven, at Tustin yesterday afternoon, 12 to 0.

The game was the first of the year for both teams and was the opening contest of the season in Orange county.

Both teams played unusually good football for the early season and the game was thrilling throughout. Monrovia scored in the latter part of the second quarter and again in the last quarter. Both attempts to kick goals were missed.

Smith, plunging fullback for the Tustin team, stood out prominently in the day's work, he making neat gains time and again, but Tustin lacked the punch to go over for a score.

SHOOTING SHUTE

with Denny Shute

Do you take up any turf when making iron shots? I have heard of players attempting to pick the ball cleanly off the ground because they hated to tear up the fairway. My only answer to that is that they should see Gene Sarazen in action.

Sarazen gouges out huge slices of turf with many of his shots. All players take turf to a greater or lesser degree, the amount depending on the kind of shot to be made. I've found it is impossible to make a decent iron shot without taking a bit of turf.

The player should aim to hit the turf with the club head at exactly the point where the ball rests on the ground. The club then digs into the ground a bit, a quarter of an inch deep or less, and then comes out on the upswing. To do this it is necessary to keep the eye on the ball during the swing and until the ball has been hit and is in flight.

It should not be necessary for me to say that all divots should be replaced and that it is the duty of the player to make certain his caddy has made the proper replacement. But I've said it. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

MISS VON ELM

Golfing ability runs in the family, so that apparently is a reason why Ruth "Sammy" Von Elm, above, is one of the most talented girl players on Salt Lake City links. Ruth is a younger sister of George, Len and Roy Von Elm. George being one of the star amateurs of the country and former U. S. amateur champion, Miss Von Elm has been playing golf only a year.

DUTRA BREAKS PAR TO LEAD IN CAL. OPEN

MONTEBELLO, Calif., Sept. 20.—Olin Dutra's par-breaking 66 in the second round gave him a dominant position in the California Open Golf tournament today as the contestants prepared for final 36-hole matches here Sunday.

The Brentwood professional forged into a three-point lead over Willie Hunter of Montebello, defending champion, by his sensational performance. He took 139 for the first two rounds, while Hunter was second with 142 and "Wild Bill" Jelliffe, Girard amateur, was tied with the same score.

Dutra started his round with an eagle two on the first hole and rounded the turn with 34. He bagged four birdies coming home, finishing in 32.

The low 32 and ties will fight it out in the two final rounds Sunday.

Bobby La Salle In Knockout Victory

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—Bobby LaSalle, 139, "the bad boy of boxing," from Long Beach, scored a two-round knockout over Bobby Reister, 137, of Alhambra, in the Legion arena here last night. Young Papke, son of Billy Papke, knocked out Jimmy Hart in the first round of the special.

SPORT WRITERS ARE DINED BY COACHES

Coaches of junior colleges of the western conference, high school coaches in the Coast Preparatory league and other school coaches in Southern California, were hosts to newspaper men of Southern California at a dinner served at the Pacific Coast club at Long Beach last night.

Coach "Tex" Oliver of Santa Ana high school and Bill Cook, local Jaycee mentor were among those present.

The meeting was held for the purpose of complaining that the junior college terms in the Southland were not getting as much publicity as they thought they should have. Newspapermen replied that there was no way for them to learn all details desired and suggested a clearing house, so that sport writers could keep up with the activity of junior college terms each week.

It was generally agreed between the newspaper men and the coaches that the papers should not "play up" this and that star on the various teams, but rather to play the stronger teams in general.

PEEK BUILDERS PLAY 3 GAMES: START MONDAY

The play-off series between the Peek's Market and Builders' Exchange teams in the Santa Ana city night baseball league, to determine the city champions, will be started Monday night, according to an announcement made today by league officials.

The series will be for the first two out of three games and the first game will be called at 7:30 o'clock Monday night. The second game will be played at the same time on Wednesday night and if a third game is necessary, will be played Friday night at 7:30 o'clock.

The Peek's Market team won the last half of the split season and the Builders' Exchange club was the winner of the first half.

A surprise move on the part of the Builders was learned today when it was said that they would use two pitchers in the contests which had not played with the team this year, but whose names had been on the eligibility list throughout the year. These twirlers are "Jerry" Heard and Walt Jordan. Jordan pitched for Santa Ana in the "A" league later going to Orange, and Heard was a regular member of the Garden Grove club in the same league.

Whether they will be eligible to play in the championship series was doubted in some quarters today, but no official statement was forthcoming from league officials on the point. Judge Kenneth Morrison, president, said he thought the players would be eligible.

Ed Banta, class "B" pitcher, who was declared eligible to play with Peek's several weeks ago, will be called on to do all the pitching in the series for the meat cutters. He has been in rare form lately.

Peek's will go into the series minus Eddie West, outfielder, who is away on vacation. His place has been well filled by "Red" Angel, in the past two games, however.

STANFORD AND ARMY ELEVEN CLASH TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Colleges of the Pacific Coast will swing into action today, officially opening the 1930 football season.

Chief among the games holding the public interest will be the Stanford-West Coast Army game at Palo Alto.

Fans are eager to see what the veteran Stanford coach, Glenn "Pop" Warner, will bring forth this season in the way of trick plays, reverses, cutbacks and passing attacks.

Warner has announced that the Cardinals will use the formation "C" against the Army team and more than 15,000 persons will be present to see if it is as effective as his A and B formations in the past.

The West Coast Army will probably give the Cardinals a stiff game, if the soldiers have recovered sufficiently from their sortie they had with the Olympic club of San Francisco last week in which the clubmen—all former college stars—nosed out the Army 19 to 13.

In the northwest, Oregon and Oregon State go into action. The Oregon University, tied for first place in the conference last year, opposes Pacific University and Oregon State meets Willamette.

In the fourth game scheduled University of Santa Clara will have a workout against California Agricultural college at Sacramento. Stanford scouts probably will be on deck in order to get a line on the Santa Claranos, whom the Cardinals play next week.

TO ADVANCE GAME TIME

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 20.—November football games played here by the University of California varsity teams will be started at 2 p. m., instead of at 2:30, athletic authorities announced. The time change was ordered to give the teams assurance of daylight throughout the games, and to allow spectators to be well on their homeward journeys before darkness sets in. October games will be started at 2:30 p. m.

S. A. COLLEGE WOMEN LAUNCH SPORTS SEASON

Friday afternoon the Women's Athletic association of Santa Ana Junior college held a rally tea to acquaint the incoming freshman girls with the functions of the organization. Every woman who turns out for a sport has a chance to play on some team, according to rules of the W. A. A.

The sports that are to open next Monday and Tuesday are basketball, swimming and tennis. A large turnout is expected for each sport, some of the women planning to elect two sports.

Helen Hendricks, who was in charge of yesterday's meeting, welcomed the new women and invited them to take advantage of membership in the W. A. A., which is dependent upon 50 points in earned sports. Miss Hendricks then introduced the coaches, Miss Leck and Miss Yount, after which she presented spokesmen for the various sports. Audrey Teel spoke to the women upon the advantages of coming out for tennis. She was followed by Marion Parsons, who urged the women to elect swimming, speaking of the different types of swimmers necessary to make a good turnout. She cited the fact that people who could not swim rapidly could be of use to their college as form swimmers or as divers. Louella Marshall was spokesman for basketball, urging the women to strive to have as fine teams and as good a time as the women did last year.

After the meeting the women interested in the sports were asked to sign up. Tea and dancing completed the affair.

IS ARRESTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Roy E. Brown, 22, oil worker, 2226 Adriatic avenue, Long Beach, wanted here on a charge of assault with deadly weapon, was arrested last night by Long Beach police on information furnished by the Orange county authorities, and then transferred to the county jail by Deputy Sheriffs Floyd W. Howard and Jess Buckles.

The defendant's brother, Buster Brown, 14, of 1780 Perris road, Long Beach, was picked up by Santa Ana police and is being held in the juvenile home pending investigation of charges against his brother. The arrest of the brothers followed an alleged attempt to steal oranges on the Irvine ranch.

Religious Rally Under Way Here

The Jewish Christian evangelist, Jacob Shalata, of Omaha, has opened a tent meeting at 710 East Fourth street, where he is holding a revival and religious rally. Services tomorrow will be held at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. Nightly services with the exception of Monday are to be held throughout the week.

Shalata plans to tell the story of his conversion at the service tomorrow night. In announcing his series of services which are to be held for a month, he stated that Christian courtesy is extended to all ministers and a hearty welcome to all people. Shalata plans to open a rescue mission in Santa Ana at the close of his tent meetings.

Seven Hundred Pennies Stolen

Seven hundred pennies and small change amounting to one dollar made up the loot carried away by burglars who Thursday night broke into the El Aco Service station, 1793 South Coast boulevard, Arch Beach, according to a report filed at the sheriff's office. Deputy Sheriffs Herman Zabel and Jess Buckles investigated the robbery. The burglars gained entrance to the station by breaking the window of the door and then reaching through and unlocking the door.

"THE SPOILERS" OPENS HERE ON MONDAY

Ann Harding Here In "The Girl Of Golden West"

BELASCO'S BIG STORY TOLD IN GRIPPING FILM

Ann Harding, famous New York stage star who also has won her spurs in talking pictures, will be seen and heard in the Fox West Coast theater for five days starting Monday, in "The Girl of the Golden West," taken from the famous old Belasco stage presentation.

The picture also will open National Farm week in Santa Ana, and a number of the short subjects in connection with the picture will be along farm lines. Speakers from the farm bureau also will give two-minute addresses at each performance.

"The Girl of the Golden West" is declared by critics to be one of the strangest pictures that has been brought to Santa Ana. It is the story of the strangest gambler a woman ever made, the strange stakes ever left to the fate of cards and the strangest climax as the girl gambles the one time in her life—for love—and cheats to win.

There are 12 stirring situations all brought out cleverly in the play and with Miss Harding as the "golden girl," the entertainment should prove one of the best that has been seen here in several weeks.

Powell Back After Jaunt Over Europe

After a three-month vacation in Europe, during which he made a 2500-mile "vagabond" automobile tour of the continent with no definite destination, William Powell, screen star, has returned to Hollywood ready to start rehearsals for his next talking production, "New Morals," at the Paramount studios.

Powell left Hollywood on May 22. Abroad he visited London and Paris, then entrained for southern France, stopping at Nice and Cannes, popular continental resorts on the Riviera.

On leaving Cannes, Powell began his long motor tour through the Chateau country, Monte Carlo and into southern Italy. During this trip, he was accompanied by Count Byron de Prorok, internationally known archeologist and lecturer, Countess de Prorok and Captain Harold ("Babe") White, expeditionary leader for the Field museum of Chicago.

For the past several days Powell has been in Chicago, where certain scenes for "New Morals" were filmed.

'The Kid' and Mitzi Screen Sweethearts

"NIGHT WORK" OPENS TODAY IN SANTA ANA

The exodus to Hollywood from Broadway is demonstrated in the resounding names of a cast of 27 to appear in Pathe's forthcoming "Night Work," starring Eddie Quillan. It is claimed by the producing company that this is the largest assembly of players ever to gather for a sound picture. The picture opens today at the Fox West Coast theater for two days.

Heading the supporting cast are Sally Starr and Frances Upton, lately of the Ziegfeld Follies and "Whoopie". The others are widely known on stage and screen. They include John T. Murray, George Duryea, Ben Bard, Robert McWade, Douglas Scott, Addie McPhail, Kit Guard, Georgia Caine, George Billings, Charles Clary, Tom Dugan, Arthur Hoyt, Billie Bennett, Tempe Pigott, Ruth Lyons, Nora Lane, Arthur Lovejoy, Marjorie "Babe" Kane, Jack Mack, Marion Ballou, James Donlin, Martha Mattox, Harry Bowen, and Ruth Hatt.

The story of "Night Work" was written by Walter DeLeon and directed by Russell Mack. The plot concerns a department store window dresser with high hopes and low bank balance, which is said to give Eddie Quillan exactly the sympathetic comedy role in which he is at his best.

VAUDEVILLE HEADS SHOW AT SHELLEY'S

Five acts of headline vaudeville again heads the program, tonight at Shelley's Third and Bush Street Theater.

The vaudeville tonight will consist of the following acts: Tony Marino and Company in "I think you Push 'em up," Ruth Leaf in "Songs you Like," Patrice Brooks in "Novelties," Sandy Morrison in "Something Different" and last but not least Alice Lewis, The Wonder Girl.

The feature picture offering for tonight only is, "A Midnight Adventure," and as the name implies, it is a mystery thriller. Heading the all-star cast are Edna Murphy and Cullen Landis, and the picture has in it all the comedy, suspense and action that can be expected of a mystery story, and a lot of extra screams thrown in. Also on the bill will be seen a comedy, a news reel, a cartoon and other short subjects.

IN 'THE SPOILERS'

Gary Cooper and Betty Compson in a scene from the famous Rex Beach story, "The Spoilers," which comes to the Fox Broadway theater Monday for a four-day run.

COINCIDENCES HELD CAUSE OF BOY'S SUCCESS

Coincidence may be cited as the weak point of many a story, but it plays important parts in the successes of mankind.

For instance, had Jackie Coogan not gone with his mother to the theater one evening to walk home with his daddy, it is strongly probable that he would have never been the screen's most famous child actor.

Another boy might have been carrying the coveted role of Mark Twain's immortal boy character today in Paramount's filmization of "Tom Sawyer" had not coincidence placed Charles Chaplin in the audience that same night.

In Swimmer's Act Jackie's father was appearing in an act with Annette Kellerman and they were playing a Los Angeles vaudeville house. The act was third on the bill, and since this was an early hour at which to finish work, Mrs. Coogan decided to walk from the hotel to the theater to meet her husband.

Coincidence planned it that Jackie had taken a long nap that afternoon and was not sleepy. So, instead of being in bed, he went to the theater.

This same force, often called fate, placed Jackie in the wings of the theater as Miss Kellerman finished taking her curtain calls. She saw the lad and, knowing that he could do childish impersonations, led him onto the stage.

Chaplin Liked Boy Chaplin was impressed at the boy's work. At the time, he was preparing to start a new picture and already had a story in preparation. However, he quickly changed his plans after talking to Jackie, the "The Kid" resulted.

The fact that Jackie had the title role and was given a part equal to that of the famous comedian made the boy an overnight sensation.

Starting as a child actor in the usual way, Jackie might never have received such an important role.

CINDERELLA GIRL IN NEW ROGERS FILM

Frances Dee, Hollywood's newest Cinderella girl, has been selected as leading woman for Charles Rogers, with whom she appeared as a "bit" player two months ago. Miss Dee is to appear opposite Rogers in "Along Came Youth," for Paramount. It was in the all-Technicolor romance, "Follow Thru," that Miss Dee played a small bit in support of Rogers and Nancy Carroll.

Her first big chance came when she was selected, over many more experienced players, to play the feminine lead opposite Maurice Chevalier in "Playboy of Paris."

LATE NOVARRO PICTURE OPENS HERE TODAY

Ramon Novarro, dressed in the handsome uniform of a lieutenant of Napoleon Bonapart, making his escape from a firing squad, climbing into a beautiful young woman's bedroom; masquerading as a fool; man; duelling his way to fame and fortune . . . these are some of the sequences of "Devil-May-Care," Novarro's all-talking screen romance which will open Sunday at Walker's State.

The supporting cast of "Devil-May-Care" includes Dorothy Jordan as Leonie, Marion Harris as Countess Louise, John Miljan as the villainous de Grignon, and others.

Author Cited for Bravery In France

Laurence Schwab, who wrote the book of "Follow Thru," comedy hit, now an all-Technicolor Paramount picture, commanded a submarine chaser during the war and was cited for bravery for saving his crew when his ship was blown up at sea.

FAMOUS NOVEL SEEN AS ALL-TALKING FILM

"The Spoilers," from the famous novel by Rex Beach, comes to Santa Ana Monday for a four-day run at the Fox Broadway theater as one of the greatest pictures of the year.

With Gary Cooper in the lead, this big Paramount production is said to be the best word in screen entertainment. It is the first time the story has been made as an all-talking picture.

To those who have seen the play, to those who have seen its double screen presentation in silent form, the talking edition will bring still greater thrills. The stage at best was only a foreshortening of the expansive outdoor setting requisite to the action. The silent screen did not compass the resonant timbre that comes with hearing living voices, crunching action, pummeling battle.

The big fight scene is as impressive as ever, with Gary Cooper and William Boyd, he of stageland's "Quirt" renown, tearing, lunging and clawing at each other; as the critical shadows of Farnum, Santochi and Sills stand apace. Other emotion-punching moods, too, has the narrative and romance, feminine charm, comedy and willful rowdying.

Kay Johnson and Betty Compson, each fighting for the same man, each with the slinking and alert fascination of a panther, silken claws loosed from the velvet veneer of convention, ready for the vital "strike" which spells exultation or hunger to the passion-starved lady heart, "click."

Harry Green and "Slim" Summerville, making riotous leaven of the characterful "sourdough" masses; James Kirkwood, a strapping prospector pal to Cooper, Lloyd Ingraham, Oscar Apfel and Jack Holmes, all knowing the power of tempo and restraint in parts more important than subordinate, are "there."

The story, classic and perhaps immortal, likely is familiar to all. In the prestige of the law which they betray, administrators of civil statutes in nerve-taut Alaska, engage in a wholesale "legitimate" despoiling of claims. As is the case whenever man-beasts anywhere permit selfish motives to sully statutes, mob revolt follows. Implementations from dainty polished feminine nails and hardly less polished and searing feminine wits, to the bone-crushing power of man-brute hands and the reverberating blast of bulk-charge dynamite, are brought into play before gold-crazed men and their women—of one kind or another—relax to the less choppy harbors of a sane conclusion.

It's 18-karat entertainment, "The Spoilers," you find it almost stark new—with talking and sound throughout—so we unreservedly recommend this week's Broadway headliner.

FAMOUS DANCE TEAM AT FOX-WEST COAST

Rita and Rubins, famous dance team, and declared by many critics to be the finest eccentric dance team in the country, head the vaudeville bill at the Fox West Coast theater, starting today and playing through tomorrow night.

The team was featured in "Loose Ankles" after finishing a tour of the RKO circuit. They were also the featured team in the mammoth ballet staged in Cecil De Mille's next picture, "Madam Satan."

Aside from this act there are four other high class Franchon and Marco productions, together with the comedy, "Night Work," with Eddie Quillan in his latest all-talking picture.

JACK OAKIE GOES TO SEA FOR 3RD TIME

For the third time in his screen career, Jack Oakie is in the navy. In his new starring vehicle, "Sea Legs," now in production at Paramount's Hollywood studio, America's joy friend plays a tar in the fleet of Sainte Cassette, a mythical island republic.

It was his first role as a sailor in the Clara Bow starring picture, "The Fleet's In," that won Oakie a contract with Paramount. His next nautical part was in "Hit the Deck."

As one of Sainte Cassette's gobs, Oakie makes love to his captain's daughter and almost causes an international crisis.

Lillian Roth is the girl. Eugene Pallette and Harry Green are the other members of the featured cast.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1930

Faculty Reception at Y Hut Was Marked Success

Standing in a formal line in the charmingly decorated "Y" hut on the college campus, faculty members of Santa Ana Junior college last night received the jaycee freshmen and sophomore students in the first formal affair of the college season.

A profusion of beautifully colored autumn flowers were placed around the room and adding to the attractiveness of the scene were the marvelous etchings which Alpha Rho Tau had secured for exhibition through D. K. Hammond.

Following the formal reception, faculty and students breaking up into informal groups were given an excellent program through the efforts of Ernest Crozier Phillips. Miss Agnes Todd Miller, acting as mistress of ceremonies, introduced Miss Theo Schwaiger who sang two solos, "In the Dawn" by Cantor and "In the Time of Roses" by Reichardt; Miss Schwaiger was accompanied by Alan Revell. Continuing the program Miss Miller presented Ione Tunison Peek, who favored the guests with several brilliant piano numbers. Mrs. Peek also accompanied Lloyd Lash Vise who sang "To the Open" by Laroche and "Dawn in the Desert" by Gertrude Ross.

Delicious punch and wafers were served in the hut and under the trees. This gave everyone the opportunity to become acquainted.

Among those in the receiving line were Miss Agnes Todd Miller, Dean McKee Flisk, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Nealley, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Beeman, Miss Lella B. Watson, Mrs. Robert Northcross, Miss Etta May Conkle, Miss Hazel Dawson, Edgar M. Flowers, Miss Evelyn Yount, Miss Myrtle Ann Martin, Mrs. E. M. Sundquist, Miss Livingston, Milton V. Newcomer, Ernest Crozier Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Scott, Miss Mary Swann, Mrs. John A. Tessmann, Miss Anna Mary Gilles, Thomas Hall Glenn, A. D. Hoenschel and Miss Zena Leck.

Relatives Assemble In Observance of Natal Day

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Abbott were hosts at a charming affair recently when they entertained in their home in Anaheim with a 6 o'clock dinner honoring Mrs. Abbott's mother, Mrs. S. G. Nay of Pasadena, on the event of her 77th birthday anniversary.

Potted ferns and baskets of autumn blossoms added to the attractions of the home. A number of relatives were bidden to share in the pleasures of the evening, with the dinner serving as the introduction to the hospitality. The table, prettily decorated, was centered with a long basket of delicate pink roses and maiden-hair fern. A pleasing contrast was achieved by the use of orchid tapers.

In the bridge contest of the evening Miss Ida Nay of this city and B. Riley of Ontario secured high scores and were awarded desirable gifts.

Those present other than Mr. and Mrs. Abbott and Mrs. S. G. Nay, the honoree were Mr. and Mrs. M. N. May, Mrs. Fannie Follen, Mr. and Mrs. B. Follen of Long Beach, George Nay and Miss Ida Nay of this city, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pellett of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Allen and son Howard of Ventura, Mr. and Mrs. B. Riley, Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Teel and daughter, Mildred, of Brea, and Melvin, Herbert, and Lee Abbott, sons of the home.

Santa Ana Girls Give Varied Program In Gate City

Three talented young Santa Ana girls, the Misses Louise Goble, Dorothy Randall and Genevieve Goble, aged 13, 14 and 15, provided the principal portion of the entertainment last evening for a large open meeting of the San Bernardino chapter, Eastern Star.

Miss Randall, talented whistling soloist, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Holt O. Randall of Bachman drive, entertained with several numbers, and Miss Louise Goble, in costume, gave three tap dance numbers. Miss Genevieve Goble accompanied them, and in addition rendered a piano solo. Also on the program were the popular San Bernardino Chanters, in their first public appearance after the summer season.

The Santa Ana entertainers were accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Goble.

RECENT BRIDE

Radio artists of KREG are greeting their bride-member, Mrs. Ben Sargent, who prior to her marriage on September 12, was Miss Lois Schlesinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Schlesinger, 417 South Birch street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sargent are talented musicians, and appear frequently on KREG programs as members of the Paramount Trio, one of the favorite entertainment units of Santa Ana.

A. D. Club Enjoyed Recent Meeting in Long Beach

Meeting for their first session since early summer, members of the A. D. club were pleasantly entertained recently with Mrs. Noble M. McBride, (Amy E. Larson) as hostess in her lovely home in Long Beach. Large bowls of blue delphinium and marigolds formed strikingly effective decorations.

At the conclusion of the evening of bridge Mrs. George Seba was presented with a desirable gift as holder of high score. Mrs. George Harris as holder of second, and Mrs. John E. Culp was consoled. The hostess and Mrs. Louis F. Rorman also shared in the gift bestowed of the evening, as each had celebrated a recent birthday anniversary.

A lovely supper was served at a late hour, with tables spread with pastel-tinted linens, with flowers to correspond.

Those sharing Mrs. McBride's hospitality were Mesdames George C. Seba, George Harris, John Culp, Dean W. Campbell, Floyd G. Lyman, Harry Milligan, Barry W. Davis, Louis F. Rorman, Bess K. Mathis, and Miss Gladys B. Young.

Prominent Families of County to Be United By Coming Wedding

Two of the most prominent families in Orange county and the Southland, will be united in October, when Miss Ariath Lois Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wagner, pioneers in the Placentia community, is wedded to Theodore R. ("Ted") Hanson, son of Ole Hanson, Seattle's famous ex-mayor and founder of San Clemente, Orange county's famous Spanish Village.

The wedding is to be an event of Wednesday afternoon, October 15, in the beautiful Wagner home on Valencia avenue near Yorba Linda. It will take place at 3 o'clock, and immediately afterwards the young people and members of their families will motor to the Spanish Village where an elaborate reception is to be given at the Social clubhouse. Following this function, the new Mr. and Mrs. Hanson will leave for their automobile honeymoon followed by the establishment of their home in San Clemente, where Mr. Hanson is tract manager for the Ole Hanson organization.

The wedding will crown a romance which has been of much interest to friends of the young people, who have seen it develop in El Rodeo Riding club and in various riding events in which both Mr. Hanson and his fiancée have taken part. For both are ardent lovers of riding and fine horses. Miss Wagner has one of the finest mounts in the Southland, and some of the handsomest riding equipment. She has taken prominent part in all El Rodeo events, and in horse shows in connection with county fairs. Mr. Hanson also is an enthusiastic horseman, and enters various Southland races, rodeos and horse shows.

Autumn Fruits and Leaves Add Charm To Luncheon

If Thursday's meeting of Past Matrons' association in the blue lounge at the Ketter cafe, might be taken as an indication of the pleasures to come during the autumn and winter activities of this group, each member will entertain lively anticipations of the year. For the whole affair, as planned by the hostesses, Mrs. Hervey T. Trueblood, Mrs. Max Reinhaus, Mrs. Thomas Brooks and Mrs. F. C. Rowland, was so enjoyable and so successful that its details will remain as a lasting memory in the minds of those present.

Autumn's glowing colors and rich fruits were used on the luncheon tables, with central baskets spilling their inviting burden of choice fruits over the white linen. Sprays of scarlet leaved Virginia creeper and painted autumn leaves contributed to the artistic effect.

As a finale to the delectable menu served, Mrs. Minnie Ketter, herself a past Eastern Star matron, presented a tray of fine chocolates to the guests.

The business meeting at 2 o'clock was conducted by the president, Mrs. W. D. Finn, and devotionals took the form of the "Perfect Prayer." Roll call proved to be an interesting interval as each member responded with clever toasts or items of general import.

Those present to enjoy the affair were Mesdames C. D. Benight, Thomas Brooks, Jacob Bohlander, F. H. Cloyes, F. D. Drake, C. S. Dunphy, C. W. Ellis, W. D. Finn, M. M. Holmes, W. E. Hurlbut, Blanche Hansen, H. T. Jones, C. E. Moore, J. W. McCormack, J. R. Medlock, J. G. Mitchell Jennie Peck, Fannie Reeves, Max Reinhaus, G. R. Safely, William Strassberger, Dr. Trueblood, J. A. Tarpley, W. V. Whitson.

September Birthdays Are Celebrated By White Shriners

Twelve members of the local White Shrine, proudly claiming September as their birth month, were accorded special birthday honors at the meeting of the Shrine on Wednesday night in Knights of Pythias hall. The festivities opened with a covered dish dinner served at 6:30 o'clock, with the banquet room decorated with unusual beautiful flowers.

A special table placed in the center of the room, was reserved for the birthday guests, who were Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, worthy high priestess of the order, Mrs. Marian Wallace, Miss Pearl Nichols, Mrs. Myrtle Shields, Mrs. Elsie Bohling, Mrs. Adeline Windsor, Dr. Estelle Workman, Mrs. Florence Isenor, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Anderson and S. J. Mustel. Roses were used in profusion to make this table attractive, and occupying a prominent place was a birthday cake faced in white and yellow, especially for Mrs. Lewis.

Repairing to the lodge room, which was brightened with zinnias, dahlias and roses, the members held their chapter session, at which Pomona and Huntington Park supreme king's guards and supreme worthy queen's attendants, were escorted to seats of honor, together with past worthy high priestesses and watchmen of the shepherds. Four candidates were initiated, Mrs. Louise Chapin, Mrs. Hannah Stuessy, Mrs. Mary Thompson Howard and Mrs. Lena Hewitt. At the close of the business session, the members took much pleasure in showering Mrs. Lewis with pretty birthday remembrances. Among the out-of-town visitors, were Mrs. Lillian Frederick of Rockford, Ill., and Mrs. Nye Martin of Albuquerque, New Mex.

WEDDED IN JUNE

That Miss Murrell Katherine Knox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Knox, 1628 Spurgeon street, had been Mrs. James Eugene Walker ever since June 11, was the romantic news disclosed when Mr. and Mrs. Knox recently issued announcements of the mid-summer wedding. The young couple will live in Palo Alto where Mr. Walker, the son of the Sharpless Walkers of Los Angeles, is attending the Stanford school of law. Both are very popular in the younger social set of Santa Ana.

Gift Shower Honors Arrival of Baby Daughter

A delightfully planned shower given in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Wilbur Parham, 1017 South Main street, found its incentive in the return of Mrs. Parham, (Alice Wilson Parham) and her beautiful baby daughter, Bonnie June, from the hospital. The shower was planned by women of the Four Square Gospel church, where Mr. and Mrs. Parham have charge, and who took this manner of expressing their interest and pleasure in the tiny newcomer.

No baby could ever desire more beautiful gifts than those showered on wee Bonnie June, who lay in her bassinet and slept peacefully throughout the party, unaware that she was the center of interest for all the assembled guests.

An impromptu program followed a little talk of appreciation by Mrs. Alice Wilson, mother of Mrs. Parham, and included friendly remarks by Mr. Parham's mother, Mrs. C. F. Parham who recently arrived from her home in Baxter Springs, Kansas, to be here to welcome her grandchild.

The Rev. Mr. Parham, who was present, also voiced his appreciation of the affection shown by the women of the congregation, and their interest in the little newcomer.

Mrs. Hattie Reeves, who presided, thoughtfully included refreshments in her plans, and an enjoyable interval was devoted to serving ice cream and cake. Sharing the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Parham and baby Bonnie June, were Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. Whitaker, Mrs. Homer Hackler, Mrs. Marie L. Axt, Mrs. Coble, Mrs. B. K. Hackler, Mrs. J. M. Hostess Entertains Fifty-Fifty Club At Luncheon

Concluding an enjoyable series of intimate gatherings which have been enjoyed by the Fifty-Fifty club since early in the year, members met yesterday in the home of Mrs. Mary Schlusman at 1201 West Fifth street. Brilliant yellow blossoms were arranged throughout the rooms to form an attractive setting for the affair.

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock, and table appointments continued in the brilliant color scheme first introduced in the bouquets. Members thoroughly enjoyed their session of bridge and when scores were added it was revealed that Mrs. Daisy McGee held high, Mrs. Leland Ewbank second, and Mrs. Schlusman, low. Loath to leave after concluding their last afternoon in the jolly little club, members lingered longer for a social time.

Those sharing Mrs. Schlusman's hospitality were Mesdames Daisy McGee, George Merriman, William Batt, Harry McCoy, Leland Ewbank, C. A. Sisson and one guest Mrs. B. H. Bauman.

Pretty Rainbow Hues Distinguish Party For Miss Mills

Miss Rebecca Mills of El Modena, who on Sunday night will become the bride of Ronald Richard Nimmo, found herself the center of interest in a group of close friends when she was complimented at a charmingly planned party given by Miss Ruby Otta and Miss Mildred Calkins, in the Henry G. Otta home, Garden Grove.

Adopting a colorful rainbow motif for their decorative appointments, the two young hostesses carried it out most artistically with the aid of orchid and rose-hued aster and pompon dahlias, blue and yellow daisies, and pink and orchid sweet peas, with feathery foliage providing the touch of green.

In the bridge contest, Mrs. Kenneth Arckley scored high and Mrs. Warren Best second, each receiving an attractive gift.

At the late supper hour, the guests found the dining room effectively arranged with small tables centered with rose crystal baskets of sweet peas and dahlias, with flaring tulle bows adding the dainty yellow and orchid tones. Favors were pretty brides with their wee flower girls.

Following their enjoyment of the delicious supper menu, the guests gathered around Miss Mills while she opened a large box, wrapped in rose cellophane paper and tied with gauzy yellow bows. Its contents proved to be linens in a wide variety, for use in her future home.

Miss Otta and Miss Calkins had the assistance of their mothers, Mrs. Henry Otta and Mrs. C. E. Calkins, together with Mrs. S. R. Fink, in extending their hospitality, while others sharing the happy evening with them and their honoree, Miss Mills, were the latter's mother, Mrs. E. W. Varied Program Adds To Success of Las Meninas Party Delightful indeed was the informal party given Thursday evening by members of Las Meninas, a junior girls service club of Santa Ana, in the home of Miss Katherine Spicer, 504 East Seventeenth street, when old members entertained prospective pledges.

The group first met in the Spicer home, from where they adjourned to the popular "College Greens" on East Fourth street, and enjoyed the clever and intricate course and its hazards. The group was extended special courtesies by the manager, William White, who paved the way for an evening of pleasure, making the experience doubly pleasant for the players.

Upon returning to the Spicer home, an explanation of the club, its ideals and its motives, was given by the president, Miss Helen Lee. A guest prize for low score in golf was then awarded, first prize going to Miss Grace Skinner, while an attractive gift was presented Miss Lucille Conaway for consolation.

Delectable refreshments were served near the close of the evening, accompanied by guest favors of tiny ornamental paste perfume. A highly amusing game occupied the rest of the evening until a late hour.

Those present were the invited guests, the Misses Neva McDonald, Marian Taylor, Lorna Allen, Grace Skinner, Florence Stanley, Evelyn Fairbridge, Ruth Collins, Agnes McKinstry, Ruth Gardner, Agnia Wheeler, Lucille Conaway, Nell Grafton, Marie Smith, Frances Pirtcher, and Las Meninas members, the Misses Juliette Taylor, Mary Louise Wallace, Ruth Fitz, Helen Lee, Katherine Spicer, Catherine Harwood, Mildred Staples, Lillian McDonald, Jean Anderson, Miriam Samuelson and the club advisor, Miss Genevieve Huniston.

Altar Society Held Party Last Night

Attracting a large number of guests was a card party of last evening held in the parish halls of St. Anne's church with members of the Altar society as hostesses. Mrs. Harry Edwards and Mrs. Charles Borchard were in charge of the affair.

Bridge and 500 were played, and at the conclusion of the evening Mrs. Brock received prizes for holding high score in the latter game while Mrs. Mary Gislisler and H. Heiny were awarded for holding second high score. Mrs. George Young held high score in bridge while A. Hadley upheld honors for men. Mrs. R. Lansenbeck and Ben Leiberman held second high score. Mrs. John Makely held the lucky number for the evening and was presented with a big ham. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Pre-nuptial Courtesy Was Extended to Miss Neta Buck

The fruit of their labors, a handsome quilt, was presented to Miss Neta Buck, charming bride-elect of Carl Youngkelt of Los Angeles, recently when members of the Helping Hand circle of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church met in her home near this city. The wedding promises to be a lovely event of September 29.

A social time and an interesting program occupied the afternoon hours, with Mrs. L. McGarvin presenting the quilt with an informal little talk on behalf of the women of the organization. She explained that "all the mistakes and knots visible were done in love," and in responding, Miss Buck referred to them as "love knots" which she will long remember.

Especially enjoyable were piano solos given by Mrs. C. D. Hicks. Other numbers were a reading by Mrs. Moody Schrock, a reading by Dona Lee Buck, and an original poem by Mrs. E. L. Pearce. Refreshments of fruitade and waters were served throughout the afternoon.

Those sharing the pleasant afternoon with Miss Buck were Mrs. Moody Schrock, Mrs. R. Weber, Mrs. W. A. Douglass, Mrs. L. Hoar, Mrs. G. Townsbury, Mrs. H. Eby, Mrs. C. Buck, Mrs. E. Buck, Mrs. McGarvin, Mrs. C. D. Hicks, Mrs. E. L. Pearce, Ruth Smith, Clifford Buck, Dona Lee Buck and Marjorie Buck.

"Spanish Nightingale" Complimented at Reception

At a reception of marked charm, given in Los Angeles by Mrs. Grace Wright Mabey, prominent in California musical circles, a signal honor was paid Madame Manuela V. Budrow, long claimed by Santa Ana as one of her favorite vocalists, and to whom has been accorded the graceful title of "Spanish Nightingale."

Senor de Arbos, famous Spanish orchestra conductor, who directed the closing Symphony concerts in the Hollywood bowl, was guest of honor at the reception tendered by Mrs. Mabey, who assembled more than a hundred musicians, notables of the Los Angeles Spanish colony, and famous picture stars in her home following the final one of the "Symphonies Under the Stars."

In the receiving line with the hostess and her special guest, Senor de Arbos, were Pietro Cimini, opera singer and leader, Mrs. Cimini, L. A. Behymer, Los Angeles Impresario, Mrs. Behymer, her sister, Miss Behymer and Madame Budrow.

An impromptu musical program was given, and Madame Budrow was further complimented by being asked to sing. In complying, she chose a group of songs by Gertrude Ross, and the composer herself played the piano accompaniments. Crystal Walters, a singer and writer from New York City, sang a group of German songs, and Senor de Arbos talked informally upon music in Spain.

Athletic Association Presides at Pretty College Tea

Another charmingly informal tea was given yesterday afternoon in honor of the new girls of the Santa Ana Junior college by the Women's Athletic association, entertaining in Andrew's gymnasium. This affair took the form of a pep rally to interest the girls in the various college sports.

Large pepper boughts formed an attractive background for the tea table and pretty autumn flowers were placed about the room. Tables were conveniently arranged for each girl to sign up for the sport in which she was most interested.

Miss Helen Hendricks, president, welcomed the girls and introduced Miss Zena Leck, adviser, and Miss Evelyn Yount, coach for after-school jaycee sports.

Miss Marian Parsons, swimming manager for last year, asked for a large turnout for swimming. Girls interested in tennis or who wished to learn the game were asked by Miss Audrey Teel to report next Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Miss Louella Marshall, basketball manager, explained that this year sophomores would get physical education credit for basketball and asked that as many girls as possible come out.

Tea and dainty sandwiches were served and dancing followed. Miss Marian Parsons and Miss Elsiebell Hurd formed the refreshment committee.

ORANGE BRIDE

Mrs. Stanley B. Jost of Orange, was formerly Miss Melba Paxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Paxton of South Grand avenue, and one of the loveliest girls of the neighboring city. Pegasus Members Develop Picture Stories

Mrs. Charles Brisco was in charge of the program for the afternoon when Pegasus club members met recently in the home of Mrs. George Bond at 520 East Myrtle street. Members read poems and stories developed from pictures supplied by the program chairman, and they proved very entertaining.

Mrs. Earl Morris began the series when she read a story, "Billie's First Party," and Mrs. Fannie Lash continued with a poem, "A Ride to a Hill Top." Mrs. George Bond presented a story, "A Neighborly Neighbor," and was followed by Mrs. Ray Brown's reading, "Mary Catherine." Mrs. Walter Foote read an especially delightful poem dedicated to Mrs. George Bond and titled, "To Agnes."

Miss Doris Robbins gave a story, "Johnny's Mother," and Mrs. Ray Winchester followed with an exciting tale of "our Burglars." Mrs. Marjorie Lusk read a poem, "Plea," and a story, "High Finance," which were equally well received. Very entertaining was the reading prepared by Mrs. C. C. Fuller, "Mrs. Casey at the Bridge Party." Mrs. Brisco concluded the interesting numbers by translating a picture to words and introducing among other delightful variations, a song, "My Curly Headed Baby."

Others present were Mrs. Frank Was and a guest, Mrs. S. M. Davis. The next meeting will be held October 2 with Mrs. Frank Lansdown as hostess.

Legion Auxiliary Has Completed Plans For Card Party

Having completed arrangements for their public card party which promises to be a delightful event of Wednesday evening, September 24, in the Legion hall, beginning at 8 o'clock, members of the American Legion auxiliary are anticipating a thoroughly successful affair.

Mrs. Charles Nussbaumer, chairman of the ways and means committee, is exerting all efforts to make the affair a banner one, and has the capable assistance of Mrs. Walter Hill, Mrs. O. A. Jacobs, Mrs. G. K. Scovel and Miss Louise Tubbs. Mrs. Nussbaumer has held office for the past year, and during that time has been responsible for a number of delightful social affairs. Included among these was the bridge tea given early in the spring. Wednesday evening's party will conclude those coming under her supervision.

Although details of the arrangements have not been revealed, committees promise that Mrs. Nussbaumer's plans include prizes and appointments which are especially unique.

Miss Vera Berner Was Complimented at Two Pretty Parties

Complimenting Miss Vera Berner and her fiancé, Stanley Gebb of Los Angeles, was an enjoyable party given last night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Hayes, 1516 Bush street, with members of the office force of the city water department as guests. Miss Berner, who is to wed Mr. Gebb at an early date, has been connected with the water office for several years, working under Mr. Hayes, the office manager.

A series of entertaining games had been planned by the hosts, and since the friendly atmosphere of their home is always a musical one, there were many impromptu song numbers, all appropriate to the betrothal and approaching marriage of the honor guests. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes sang several delightful duets, including "La Golondrina," Schubert's "Love Song," and others, with Mrs. Hayes playing the piano accompaniment. She also played for P. A. Van Dam in his solo number, "Moth and Machree," and for the impromptu quartet numbers presented by the men of the party.

Interest in the evening reached its climax when Miss Berner was presented with the pieces to complete her set of topaz crystal, the joint gift of her co-workers in the water office. The presentation was made by the host, who proved his abilities as a clever speaker.

The enjoyable event was concluded with a delectable little late supper, served by Mrs. Hayes to the accompaniment of attractive flowers. The guests included in addition to Miss Berner and Mr. Gebb, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Van Dam, Miss Josephine Smith, Miss Lee Patton, Miss Mae Patton and W. D. Willson.

In Wood Home Last night's party was the second event of the week honoring Miss Berner, the first having been a pleasant surprise arranged by her sister members in the Missionary circle of the Evangelical church.

Miss Berner was supposed to be a member of the committee for the meeting, which was held in the home of Mrs. T. A. Wood (Miss Elmer) at 1020 Orange avenue, with Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Otto Schroeder and Mrs. Elmer Juenke as hostesses. So she was utterly unaware of the friendly conspiracy to make her a guest of honor.

The meeting proceeded through its routine of business matters and program, and then the unsuspecting honor guest was called to the door on some pretext, and rejoining the group, found that the hostesses had produced a table laden with interesting packages. The gifts were charming, and included a set of plates in topaz glass.

Refreshments served on individual trays and emphasizing a rosy color scheme, completed the enjoyable evening. Roses with graceful greenery, and little rosebud nutcups, added their charm to each tray. There were approximately 25 guests to join in the happy surprise.

Ebel Flower Show Is Program Theme of Section Meeting

Advance plans for the Ebel Garden show, a much anticipated event of September 25 and 26 were made Wednesday at the meeting of the Garden section held in the charming Tustin home of Mrs. Cood Adams. Decorations were especially appropriate, and included great baskets of dahlias and zinnias and throughout the room. A dainty cluster of baby dahlias centered the prettily appointed table.

Mrs. Walter E. Watkins, the section leader, presided during the business session, and emphasized the fact that those who prepare flowers for the show may claim them after 6 o'clock Friday evening, if they desire their return at all. A special call was made for the donation of bulbs of all kinds, with Monday set as the day for taking them to the club house. All bulbs must be fumigated before they are offered to the public, and committees are anxious to have the work completed all at one time.

About twenty members were present at the interesting session, and all were enthusiastic over the promised success of the annual flower show. The entire club house will be devoted to the affair, and a number of worthwhile exhibits are planned. Each of the various sections is establishing a well-worked out exhibit and Mrs. F. E. Coulter's display of table service which will occupy an attractive place in the lounge, is expected to be truly exquisite.

Having as their guests last night members of the prize winning drill team of Los Angeles Victory lodge, members of the local Fraternal Brotherhood held a most enjoyable meeting. The visitors gave initiatory work and followed with an exhibition drill which was especially well received. Santa Ana members were especially proud to have this team visit them as it was their first prize over all other organizations competing in Redondo August 24. Captain Mills is the leader and is entering on his eighth year in that capacity.

Mrs. J. W. Johnson donated a large angelfood cake to the drill team, proceeds from the sale of the delectable confection netting $10 for the uniform fund. A member of the Los Angeles team held the winning number. Other Los Angeles members contributed talks to the evening's entertainment, with Captain Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Bugbee giving worth while discussions for the good of the order. J. W. Johnson of this city also spoke.

Refreshments supervised by Mrs. Nellie Trickey and served in the dining room by the drill team followed the business session. Dancing occupied the remainder of the evening hours.

Plans were made for junior and adult lodge pot-luck dinner for September 26. Lamar Hossler and Chester Lane were initiated into the order.

Unusual Travel Talk Promised to Ebells Members

"A Musical Travelogue" is the intriguing title given by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Oliver to the program which they are to present Monday afternoon, before women of Santa Ana Ebells society, who will assemble in the clubhouse auditorium at 2 o'clock, for the short business meeting and its subsequent program.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver have divided their program into four separate parts, devoting the first interval to Oberammergau and the Passion Play. While in the remote little Bavarian village, they were guests in the home of Anton Lang, the remarkable Christus of the Passion play for two of the decade events.

Rome and Naples will be featured in the second interval, and will provide a thrilling story of the recent earthquake which occurred while Mr. Oliver's party was in Naples. Clubwomen will enjoy the variety afforded by the third section, which will be devoted to Paris and unusual sights in the French capital.

Spain and her enchantments will conclude the travel talks of Mr. Oliver, and to each one, Glenn Oliver will add the folk songs and some of the classics of the country in question. She will adopt the correct national costume, appearing in turn as a peasant girl of Germany, one of the romantic Neapolitan flower vendors, a lady of fashion in a richly elegant costume from one of the great designers of Paris, and finally as a Spanish senorita in a graceful costume worn with a priceless mantilla of hand-made lace.

Garden Fair Was Charming Event Of Thursday

The attractive grounds between the homes of Mrs. Cynthia Davis and Mrs. J. R. Moore in the 400 block on West Second street was the setting for a gala affair Thursday afternoon from four o'clock until late at night when the women of the First Presbyterian church successfully carried out plans for their garden fair.

Booths of all types transformed the secluded grounds into a gay bazaar which proved itself a magnet for many interested women of the city. An especially distinctive booth, attractively situated beneath swaying Japanese lanterns, was that where Chinese hand work and novelties of all descriptions were for sale. This was sponsored by the Westminster guild.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was a program planned by Mrs. George Walker. Betty Smedley and Robert Forcey favored with violin duets and Philip Dowds gave readings. Variety was found in the little playlet presented by Mrs. Guy Dowds and Mrs. Walker.

Women of the church will be interested in learning that about $120 was realized from the affair.

MUSIC-LITERATURE-ART

ARTHUR HONEGGER

BY RUTH ANDREWS

One of the most outstanding personalities among contemporary composers is Arthur Honegger, considered to be the most important representative of the ultra-modern French school of composers that has come rapidly to the front since the World War. The name of Honegger never fails to arouse heated discussion, both pro and con, in musical circles.

That his is an individually unique and arresting must be admitted by Honegger's bitterest opponents, even though they may not look with favor upon his distinctive idiom of musical expression. The way of the iconoclast, like that of the transgressor, may be hard, but at any rate it is never monotonous!

His comparative youth makes all the more interesting our study of Honegger, for although he is but 37, his name is already a topic of international discussion. Last year he visited Los Angeles and San Francisco, appearing in concert together with his talented wife, under the auspices of the Pro Musica Society, playing and directing his own works, and creating quite a ripple of comment among the conservative and radical elements of the musical clique in the near-by center.

Although born in Havre, Honegger is sometimes claimed as a Swiss composer, for his parents were of the Swiss merchant class of Zurich, who had settled for a time in Normandy. They favored the cultivation of Arthur's musical gift and his early training in the rudiments of music was received at Zurich.

Later he studied music more intensively at the celebrated Paris Conservatory. From Gedalge he learned counterpoint and fugue, composition from Widor, violin from Capet, and conducting with the noted composer, Vincent d'Indy. He made remarkable progress and decided to adopt a musical career as his life-work.

Accordingly, when Honegger left the Conservatory of Paris, he settled down to the serious study of composition. His early works showed a definite promise, among them an orchestral sketch, entitled "Le Chant de Nigamou."

As is usually to be noted in the work of an impressionable young composer, Honegger's works for a time gave evidence of the influence of various masters. His admiration passed from Debussy to Florent Schmitt, a modern French composer of note, while the mark of Wagner, Reger, Richard Strauss, and especially the more modern Schoenberg and Stravinsky were for a time quite noticeable in Honegger's creative work. But from this era of unconscious imitation gradually evolved the Honegger of recent years, with his distinctive, individual and thoroughly courageous style.

At the time of the outbreak of the World War, an ultra-modern group of very youthful composers was coming into being. Because their works appeared frequently on recital programs, they were spoken of by French music critics as the "French Six" rather than from any common ideal or purpose.

Of this interesting group Honegger was the most talented. Other members included Darius Milhaud (1892), Francois Poulenc (1899), Georges Anrie (1899), Louis Durey, and Mlle. Germaine Tailleferre, but the latter four have accomplished little.

Honegger holds first rank among the group, but in recent years he has broken away from this association, and has gone on his own way, blazing his own trails, composing a wealth of songs, orchestral and chamber music, that is rich with promise.

An especial fondness for chamber music is seen in Honegger's output, although he has works in many varied forms to his credit, including ballets, sacred choral works, symphonies, and many lovely songs.

Some of his more recent works include the symphonic poem "Pastorale d'Ete"; incidental music to a masque "Dit des Jeux du Monde" (1918), founded on a poem by Merval of Belgium; "La Mort de Sainte Almeene" (1919); "Saul" (1922), and the extremely successful oratorio "Le Roi David," written for chorus and orchestra, and first produced at Mezieres in 1921. This work evidenced a definite talent for the dramatic, and has been produced successfully for Paris audiences in recent years. In spite of being written hastily, it is indicative of a vigorous individuality.

1922 brought "Horace Victorieux," a mimo symphony, based on the old historic tale of Livy, and considered Honegger's masterpiece. The work possesses power, vigor and balance. One of Honegger's more recent orchestral works is his "Pacific 231," a musical description of a locomotive, dissonant and ultra-modern, which has stirred up considerable adverse criticism among the conservatives.

On the whole Honegger composes carefully, painstakingly. His work evidences a firm grounding in counterpoint, an emphasis on atonal harmonic treatment similar to the style of Schoenberg. Dissonances are generously used, also a boldness or force that is a common characteristic of the neo-modern French school is very noticeable.

A prominent critic says of Honegger, "This music is in a harsh, bitter idiom, but its strength makes itself felt. Each instrument in his orchestral scores and chamber music seems to possess its own distinct individuality, to speak its own language."

Today Honegger is entering an important period of artistic maturity. There is every evidence that the next decade will bring a creative output of even more striking value from the pen of this most promising composer of present-day France.

JOHN LEWIS BARKLEY

John Lewis Barkley, whose "No Hard Feelings" was published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation September 5th. Mr. Barkley was rated by high American officers as one of the war's outstanding soldiers. He received the Congressional medal of honor, nine citations and a shirt-full of decorations from the allied governments. Members of his family have been awarded three Congressional medals of honor, one of which was gained by General Thomas, an ancestor on Washington's staff. On his mother's side, Barkley was descended from Daniel Boone, who would recognize the hardboiled, humorous and typically American spirit which permeates his descendant's saga of fighting men. Mr. Barkley left his farm in Holden, Mo., when he was 18, to enlist when the war broke out. After the armistice was signed he went back to the farm which has been operated by his family since 1883.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

Hearst, by John E. Winkler, published by Simon and Schuster.
The treatise entitled "Hearst, An American Phenomenon," is the story of the man Hearst, written in a manner to convey to the reader an idea of his moral code, his motives and the views he holds of life, as evidenced by his decisions and actions.

Like a case study in law, Winkler gives the facts with a singular directness, personal attitude apparently, and with a penetrating style that brings before the reader the portrait of this striking and enigmatic personality. Only by immediate and personal association with Hearst himself in his office, his home, his club and his political associations could one receive more definite knowledge, and even then without the power of generalization, he could not as clearly get a composite photograph of Mr. Hearst as he does in these pages. This is not a biography; it is a graphic story of activity.

It tells of how "Hearst trundled his spotlight into the center of the American stage," and it has been kept there for 33 years. It started with the San Francisco Examiner, which Hearst's father owned, and on which he had been losing money. Into it Hearst, as nothing more than a boy, put his genius for mischief, his propensity to stir up a row, his uncanny ability to discern what the people would be interested in, and an astounding ability to get things done. This, together with the spirit of what is common to the spoken of as "nerve" and a spirit of adventure, the writer presents as the most colossal figure in journalism and the phenomenon of American life.

Hearst was sent to Harvard college, but for the good of the institution he was asked to take a vacation, and he spent his time for the next few months studying newspapers of New York. He seemed to carry away the genius of Pulitzer raised to the "nth" degree, and as some one has said, he already possessed the elements of P. T. Barnum, of Gagliostro, and of Northcliffe.

Hearst is a genius. Winkler shows his ability in a brief period of time to reach the bottom of the problem that is before him, whether it is that of the press, photography or a political situation. He carries her personal books in his head. Winkler says he is a man of orderly disorder. "He maintains no personal file; his office is anywhere and everywhere he happens to be. He scribbles it on the backs of envelopes, scraps of paper. He is an extremely indolent correspondent. He possesses many luxuries, appointed hide-outs, and yet with all that he is carrying on the greatest single business that is under the direction of a single individual."

When Hearst took over the Examiner, it was nothing short of a journalistic joke. It had little paid circulation and less advertising. Within two years the 26-year-old editor had converted the Examiner into the greatest feature newspaper in the west, and within three years more it had become the greatest money-maker on the coast. Hearst did with the Examiner what he did with his New York, Chicago and other papers, and he did it at the very beginning, and has not made very much improvement since. He "jazzed up" the town. He launched a series of crusades, campaigns and spectacular exploits.

There is no question but what at the same time Hearst has attacked abuses and at times protected and served the masses to a very great degree. Hearst is always attacking things. Sometimes they are real, sometimes they are windmills and sometimes they are men of straw. His first crusade in California was against the Southern Pacific railway. Hearst has always utilized on public men private correspondence whenever possible to find it. He used the Colton letters, written by Collie P. Huntington of the Southern Pacific railroad to David H. Colton, an eminent California attorney. "They revealed," says Winkler, "almost unbelievable corruption, and 'Public Plunder by Private Privilege' became an issue in every campaign in California for 20 years." Later by publication of a series of letters he drove from public life Senator Foraker of Ohio and many noted men who had become involved as hirelings of the Standard Oil company. Hearst is a reckless spender, and at times this recklessness has brought him to what his friends believed the brink of ruin. Sometimes forced to curtail temporarily, he branches out anew and his income in certain quarters overcomes the loss in every other. He lost $450,000 in San Francisco before he made the Examiner pay, but before he could turn the New York Journal into profit, he had lost $7,500,000. His battle with Pulitzer and the Bennetts will always remain as the great fight of New York newspaper field, though from a personal point of view probably the contest with Al Smith was more serious and certainly distasteful to Hearst.

His association with Brisbane, his Bryan campaign, his organization and propaganda for the war with Spain, and his relation to its beginnings are the basis of the charge that he produced the war. Mr. Winkler produces the correspondence between Frederic Remington and Hearst — Remington having been sent to Havana to make pictures of Spanish cruelty to excite the people against the Spanish. He wanted to come back and wired: "Everything is quiet. There is no trouble here. There will be no war. I wish to return." Winkler says that this is the reply Hearst is said to have written: "Please remain. You furnish the pictures and I'll furnish the war." And it was furnished.

The story of Hearst's attempts to gain political prestige, the governorship of New York and the presidency of the United States is related with keen discernment and the important in a necessarily brief description. The author tells of Hearst's ventures in the various papers, magazines and movies. He paints the picture, not as one would like to have it, but as it is, and suggests that Hearst has a thousand readers to one follower. He says: "If he had his life to live over again, one wonders if Hearst would tread the same path. Would his motto again be: 'Capture the crowd at any cost!' Or would he elect to employ his astonishing talent to enable, to spiritualize the crowd?"

Whether one believes in Hearst or disbelieves in him, he is a factor in national politics to be reckoned with. This book portrays him vividly and carries a list of the many publications which are owned by him and the magazines and films and news services. He is at the head and principal, if not the entire owner of some 75 different organizations.

The Edwardians, by V. Sackville-West, Mrs. Harold Nicolson.

The years of Edward VII are not yet far away but society has experienced radical changes. Most of the luxury of the large estates of England, as it is described in "The Edwardians" has given way to economical simplicity, in cases where owners have not been forced to abandon their estates entirely because of the financial pressure. But in "The Edwardians" we see English society as it was in one of its most brilliant periods. Some of the descriptions of Chevon, of Christmas at Chevon, of the house party gathering at Chevon, of the Duke's interests remind one of Washington Irving's descriptions. Though the actual descriptions have probably never been done so well there has been plenty who have testified this author knows the period of which she writes, and knows the society and the customs of the great estates.

The writing is exquisite. As a test of its finish notice in the beginning the way in which the author succeeds in weaving in the necessary information about the time and place of the story and class of the people.

A lasting influence in the young manhood of Sebastian, the young duke, heir to Chevon who is reaching his majority at the time of the story, is Leonard Anquetil, an explorer, who comes to Chevon in one of Sebastian's mother's house-parties as the "lion" and remains over by the invitation of Sebastian and Viola, his sister.

Far from being dazzled by Sebastian's enviable position as master of Chevon, and with adequate resources, Anquetil pities him as the victim of a social system from which he never will be able to escape—in which the people are slaves. The rigours of the system do not preclude illicit loves and immorality. The point that is fixed is that they must not "get themselves talked about." If a man had discovered that his wife was the mistress of another man and had conducted himself so that there was a public scandal about the matter probably the society of that period would have condemned the husband more for making the affair public than it would have condemned the lovers for their conduct. But it was also a rule that the lovers should conduct themselves in such a way that their relationship should not become public knowledge. Everyone in their class might be fully aware of it and they would be fully accepted, but when outsiders also found out about it, then the lovers would be dropped from society. The appearances of society must be kept up at all cost to sincerity. So long as the members of high society appeared to conform to the standards of society they were acceptably, whether they did conform or not. When they transgressed appearances they had committed the unforgivable sin.

Anquetil pities Sebastian and urges him to come exploring with him. But Sebastian remains, to look after his estate and to make love to one of his mother's friends. Throughout the next six years Sebastian follows the customs of dukes of the period. He entertains, he makes love, he manages his estate, he is in the guards. He is a romantic figure. One doesn't quite lose faith in him. He stands at the beginning of a new order. His sister Viola travels a modern mode of life and he champions her. At the end his personality is saved and he agrees to go exploring with Anquetil. But he has served his purpose. He has enabled us to peer to the depths of a society which had no peer in hypocrisy and sham.

"The Edwardians" is really an important book. It puts a stamp which one will never forget on a period of history. After one has read it reference to the period in the future will bring to mind "The Edwardians" and, because the book is true to that age one will be immediately oriented in the period.

Ex-Husband, published by the Macaulay Company.

The author of "Ex-Husband" is anonymous, though the clue is said to be in the book. It is a satire on "Ex-Wife."

"Ex-Husband," however, didn't seem to this reviewer to be nearly as worthy of one's time as "Is Sex Necessary," or "Salt-Water Taffy." But then the proper mood is essential to the enjoyment of satire.

THIS IS NEWS

WOOSTER, O., Sept. 20.—When a man bites a dog it's news, according to the late publisher, Charles Dana. And when a boy bites a snake, it's more than news. The papers nearly got out an extra when Allen Manson recently did that little trick. Coming upon a blue racer, Allen grabbed it before it could strike him. The snake coiled about him until he was forced to bite it until it was nearly dead before he was released.

NEWS FROM THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

CALIFORNIANS PAY LESS IN FEES FOR CARS

BY J. F. McLAUGHLIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Sept. 20.—(UP)—California motorists pay less in fees for the privilege of operating their cars than motorists of virtually any other state in the nation.

Of 25 states visited recently by Victor Killick, statistician of the California highway patrol, not one had a registration fee as low as the $2 flat fee charged in California.

Most of the states, Killick found, are still using the old horsepower rating system or scheduling their fees on a weight basis. Under these systems fees ranged from $8.89 for light vehicles to $40 for heavy machines.

California motorists paid a total of approximately $10,500,000 in 1929 for registering their cars. New York motorists, with only a few thousand more cars, paid $35,250,000 last year. Pennsylvania, with a smaller registration than California, collected $29,250,000 in registration fees.

Twenty of the states have a four cent gasoline tax, which is one cent higher than in California. Nine have a five cent tax and three have a six cent tax.

In many of the states visited by Killick, gasoline taxes are diverted for general administration expenses, for schools and other purposes, while in California all of the money derived from the three cent tax is spent on highways.

Killick also found that virtually every state makes an annual charge to applicants for licenses to operate motor vehicles and some make a further charge for examination of such applicants. No such charges are made in California.

Many states also exact a fee of $1 for the legal ownership (pink slip) certificate, which is given free in California to the motorist registering his car for the first time.

Rains May Cause Delay to Tourists

Rains at this time of the year are very heavy through the state of Arizona and dips in the highways often become filled with water, necessitating delays of several hours. Motorists traveling through Arizona should, therefore, make local inquiry from time to time as to existing road conditions, advises the touring department of the National Automobile club.

Fifth World Trip Ended By Dodge Car

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 20.—The Dodge Brothers Eight Mileage Marathon car finished its fifth transcontinental run here Tuesday and after a brief overnight stay left for its sixth trip Wednesday morning.

When the car pulled up to the main entrance of the Dodge Brothers plant its speedometer registered more than 35,500 miles. This mileage was recorded in 73 days and represents over three years of average driving.

During the run just completed the car paid its first visit to Washington, D. C., where Ray Priest, official A. A. A. observer who has been with the car since its start, was received by President Hoover to whom he gave a detailed report on federal and state highways in the 47 states visited during the Mileage Marathon run.

The car's sixth trip will take it to Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Tulsa, Abilene, Dallas, San Antonio, Brownsville, Houston, Texas, Arkansas, Memphis, through Illinois and Indiana back to Detroit, arriving October 4. The sixth trip will add approximately 5,500 miles to the rapidly mounting mileage on this sensational marathon.

LOS ANGELES-MONO LAKE ROUTE GOOD

The Owens River Valley route from Los Angeles to Bishop and Mono Lake is in very good condition at this time, although construction is under way from a point 18 miles north of Mojave, through Red Rock canyon, for a distance of 19 miles, according to the touring department of the National Automobile club. The alignment of the road is being changed and the grade raised through Red Rock Canyon, and immediately north, work is being done on elimination of the curves. Construction work is also under way for approximately one-eighth of a mile at Little Lake.

The construction work which has been in progress between Santa Susana and Simi has been completed, though construction is still in effect between Simi and Moorpark and a detour over an old gravel road is necessary, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

GRAHAM WILL STAGE NATION WIDE AD PLAN

A concentrated fall business drive by all Graham-Paige dealers off Sunday, September 7, with the announcement of a special value-giving demonstration and specially arranged displays of Graham cars throughout the country.

According to F. R. Valpey, general sales manager of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation, this Graham value-giving demonstration marks the beginning of a comprehensive advertising and sales program, and starts the company's fall business drive in hundreds of towns all over the United States.

Features of the showings will be the Graham Special sizes and eights, with the time-proved Graham four-speed transmission. The Graham Standard six town sedan at $845 and the universal sedan at $895, together with the de luxe town sedan, which has proved so popular, will also be included in the displays.

"This demonstration of value-giving with its attendant advertising program, grows out of our belief that general business will show an upturn during the fall season, and we naturally want Graham dealers to take advantage of renewed buying activity," Mr. Valpey stated.

4.1 CARS FOR EACH MILE OF HIGHWAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The world may be motoring today on approximately 7,800,000 miles of highway, it is disclosed in a report of the American Research Foundation, just made public here, which points out that there are an average of 4.1 automobiles for every mile of road on earth.

"Uncle Sam could take a jaunt of 3,016,281 miles by automobile on highways within the boundaries of the United States, although he would have to do some retracing of route in order to complete the trip," the report states. "No other half dozen countries in the world can boast the road mileage of America, which explains in part, at least, the reason why this country possesses more than three quarters of all the motor vehicles owned by man."

"In addition to good roads, automobile touring is rendered easier in this country as a result of the assurance of readily obtaining gasoline and oil supplies of the type required for the most efficient operation of the individual car."

"Conditions for motoring are not nearly as propitious in other parts of the world. In all Africa, for example, there are only 262,920 miles of roads. Asia, with its teeming millions of population, has only a third the road mileage of this country, or 1,014,014 miles. Australia has a mere 350,863 miles of road, and Europe, including all of Russia but 2,450,429 miles of roads."

Topango Canyon Road Still Closed

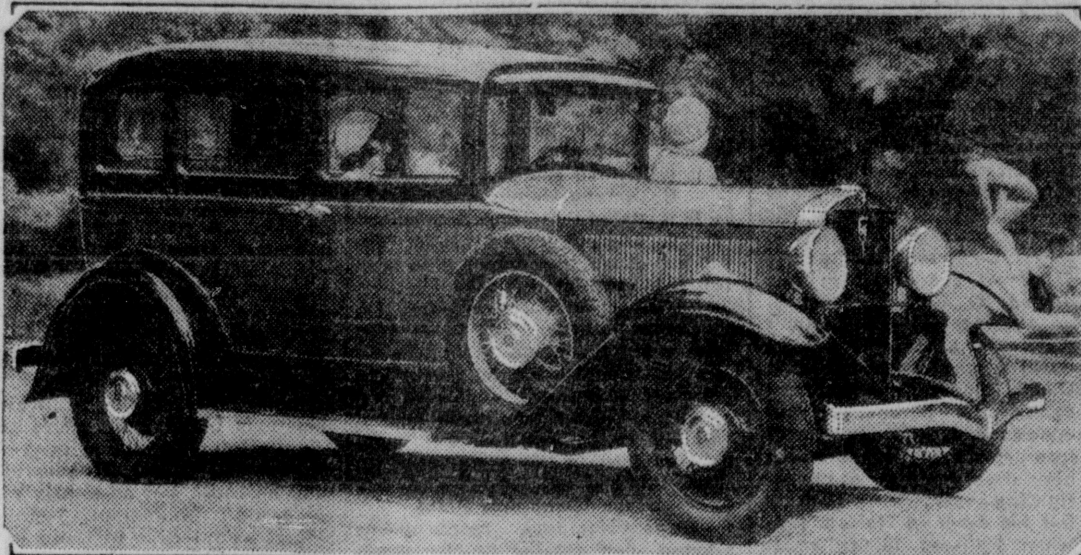

The Topango Canyon Road from Santa Monica to Girdard is still under construction and it is necessary to use the old road from Topango Post Office to Mulholland Drive, according to the touring department of the National Automobile club.

Santa Maria Road Work Is Completed

The construction work which has been under way on the coast route to San Francisco, immediately north of Santa Maria, is now completed, according to the touring department of the National Automobile club.

NEW FREE WHEELING CAR ANNOUNCED

Free Wheeling, the engineering innovation introduced by Studebaker several months ago, has been incorporated in a new Dictator eight announced by Studebaker at a new low price. In addition to Free Wheeling the new Dictators feature an eighty-one horsepower motor with dual carburetion and manifolding and a new body design with smarter lines and colors. Prices range from $1095 to $1250 at the factory. The Regal sedan and four-passenger coupe are illustrated.

LATEST MODELS IN STUDEBAKER CAR SEEN HERE

A new $1 horsepower Dictator Eight, completely redesigned, more powerful, and equipped with Studebaker's sensational innovation of free wheeling is announced by the Studebaker Corporation. This New Dictator Eight is offered at new low prices ranging from $1095 to $1250.

Free wheeling under positive gear control, developed and perfected by Studebaker engineers and manufactured under Studebaker patents, has completely captured public imagination since its introduction two months ago in the new series President and Commander Eights, according to the manufacturer. In the New Dictator Eight it now becomes available to even the modest purse, together with the advantages associated with a seasoned eight cylinder car.

Free wheeling has advanced modern motoring to a point of perfection hitherto unknown it is claimed. Its many remarkable features contribute to even greater smoothness, greater economy and greater driving pleasure.

Gears between second and high may be shifted back and forth at any speed without touching the clutch. The shift is smooth and silent with no gear clashing. The clutch need be employed only to start and back up.

Material saving are effected in gas and oil. Laboratory and road tests show that free wheeling saves from 12 to 20 per cent in gas and 20 per cent in oil. The same tests demonstrate that free wheeling operates an average of one mile in every five under ordinary driving conditions. Thus, in 10,000 miles, the engine only 'works' 8,000 miles, while the remaining 2,000 miles are traveled on momentum alone with the engine idling. Additional savings result from the elimination of reversionary strains on engine, transmission, chassis and tires, because while free wheeling, car momentum does not 'force' the engine.

Work On Highway Near San Onofre

Construction work is under way on the Coast route from Los Angeles to San Diego, near San Onofre and at San Clemente, according to the touring department of the National Automobile club. Considerable road equipment is stationed alongside of the highway from the San Diego county line for three-quarters of a mile south, near San Onofre, and traffic is under control during working hours, necessitating short delays. At the north city limits of San Clemente, a steam shovel and road crews are at work widening the highway, and careful driving is necessary at this point.

Minor License Applicants Need Parent's Consent

The National Automobile club has received many inquiries regarding the age that a minor may be licensed to drive an automobile. The legal department advises that any minor over the age of 14 years may obtain an operator's license when he obtains his parent's or guardian's consent, and passes the tests required by the division of motor vehicles.

PLEA IS MADE FOR CLEAN WINDSHIELDS

Cleaner windshields! That this should be one of the driving slogans for fall is suggested by the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Rain and wind of the coming months help to dirty windshields, and many accidents have been traced to dirty front car windows as a partial cause, at least.

Touring along beach highways, in mountains or on extensive trips always brings dirty windshields. Damp salt air near the seashore rapidly transforms the glass into a semi-translucent condition which adds greater difficulty and hazard to driving, especially at night. The wisest and safest plan when windshields are dirty so that it is difficult to see through them is to stop at once and clean the glass.

Work on Baldy Road Construction work is still under way on the scenic mountain drive from Camp Baldy to Glenn Ranch, San Bernardino county, according to the Touring Department of the National Automobile club. This road was opened to the public for a short time, but the traffic over it interfered with the work to such an extent that it became necessary to close the road. It will not be opened again until all construction work has been completed.

SALE FIGURES SHOW CHRYSLER BEING BOUGHT

Complete July automobile registration reports from all states compiled this week by the statistical department of the Chrysler Corporation show Chrysler dealers attaining the enviable ranking of third position in the industry.

Registration shows that during June, Chrysler dealers delivered 11,134 Chrysler and Plymouth automobiles, entitling them to third position among the 10 leading lines, exceeded only by two of the lowest priced American made cars.

Deliveries of 10,206 Chrysler and Plymouth cars by Chrysler dealers as shown by the July return from all states reveal them still holding third place.

"Sales levels maintained by the Chrysler cars so far this year, coupled with the steadily increasing popularity of the Plymouth, now one of the lowest priced American cars, have enabled Chrysler dealers to climb right up next to the top rungs of the sales ladder in volume of motor car units sold," said J. W. Frazer, general sales manager of the Chrysler Sales Corporation, in commenting upon the splendid showing made by this group of dealers.

"Plymouth's sensational climb," he continued "from twelfth position in February; eleventh in March; tenth in April; fourth in May to third in June and July explains of itself the important factor that it has been in improving the relative ranking of the Chrysler dealers."

The road from U. S. Highway No. 101, two miles north of King City to Jolon is closed due to paving operations on the Jolon Grade, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

DE SOTO EIGHT AVERAGES 16 MILES IN TEST

An average of 16.5 miles per gallon of gasoline while running at the rate of 40.23 miles an hour over a distance of 2882.8 miles is the latest economy record to be made by the new De Soto eight. Details of the test run from San Diego, Calif., to Seattle, Wash., and return have just been received by the service department of the De Soto Motor corporation.

The run was made principally for the purpose, it is said, of testing performance of a particular brand of gasoline and motor oil. Laboratory inspection of the oil in the crankcase showed only 1.5 per cent dilution on the outbound trip and 1.4 per cent on the return trip. Officials in charge of the test stated that the design of the De Soto straight engine, giving complete and efficient combustion, combined with the durable qualities of the oil to establish the remarkable results obtained in the test.

The gasoline mileage was considered unusually good in view of the fast average speed of the car up and back and the fact that the trip included all kinds of driving—cities, country highways and some steep mountain grades. In order to maintain the average of 40.23 miles per hour for the trip, it was necessary at times, according to observers, to run with the throttle wide open. Gasoline consumption per mile at these high speeds, naturally, was much greater than if it had been possible to drive at a slower rate of speed.

WISCONSIN AUTOS INCREASE INSURANCE

Total amount of insurance carried on automobiles driven by people of Wisconsin has practically doubled in five years, according to a report of the state insurance department reaching the Automobile of Southern California.

Total premiums paid for liability insurance by Wisconsin policy holders in 1925 was $2,954,350, while during the past year the total was $5,624,990.

The construction work which has been in progress on the Rim of the World Drive between Lake Arrowhead and Allison's ranch has been completed, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

RUMORED NASH EIGHT WILL BE LOWER PRICED

Rumors emanating from sources deemed reliable are to the effect that the Nash Motors company will soon make an important announcement of a new line of motor cars. For some time past, the industry and the trade have been looking for some such pronouncement by Nash. This interest is especially strong because of the reputation of the Nash organization for meeting merchandising conditions in a most masterful way.

While details are lacking, the reports current have reference to a new low-priced eight by Nash and the probability that this car will be the lowest priced eight in the world. Besides this car, it is said that there will be two other eights, one in the moderate priced field and one selling at a medium price.

Perhaps the most interesting of the rumors relating to Nash plans has to do with a low-priced six cylinder car—the lowest priced car Nash has ever built. From various sources, it has been learned that shipments of this new six are already made and that it is being eagerly ordered by Nash dealers.

DODGE MARATHON CAR HAS ROAD DELAY

Delayed on account of the roughest roads it has encountered since starting on its epic run 46 days ago, the Dodge Eight Mileage Marathon car completed its third cross-country trip at midnight, August 15. In spite of tortuous pounding over pot-holed and rain-drenched roads throughout the northwest, the car finished only four days behind schedule. The speedometer registered exactly 22,000 miles at the end of trip No. 3—the equivalent of more than two years of ordinary driving.

Trip No. 4, starting August 16th, will take the marathon car through the New England states, into the south and middle west and for a swing through the lower peninsula of Michigan. The car will stop at the state capitol in Lansing to deliver a letter from Mayor Edwards of Seattle, Washington, to Governor Green. The mayor's letter is in reply to a message carried by the marathon car from Governor Green to Mayor Edwards on its third trek across the country.

PLYMOUTH CARS REACH NEW LOW LEVEL IN PRICE

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 20.—That the new lower price levels in the automotive industry have established a new high for the purchasing power of the automobile dollar was brought out in a statement by F. L. Rockelman, president and general manager of Plymouth Motor corporation, announcing the new Plymouth roadster at a new low base price of $535 and a reduction of $25 on the coupe.

"It has been the policy of Plymouth since its inception to give the buying public the immediate benefit of any improvement in design or performance and any saving brought about by increased efficiency in production methods or gain in sales volume," according to the statement.

"That this plan has been thoroughly appreciated is apparent from Plymouth's sensational leap into third place in registrations throughout the United States in June and July. This compares with a ranking of ninth during the same months of last year and tenth place in April and fourth place in May of this year. Plymouth's percentage of sales of all automobiles has been materially higher during these periods.

The new section of the high gear road from Camp Waterman to the original high gear road on the way to Lake Arrowhead has been completed, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Yosemite Valley Has Late Summer Motor Interests

At this time of year, in late summer, Yosemite National park is beautiful, but it is not the same beauty that is found at other seasons. Late summer in Yosemite is much the same as late spring at lower elevations—flowers and vegetation at the height of their glory, according to San Joaquin Valley Tourist and Travel association.

Being late in summer, much of the dense crowd has gone and the famous vale of enchantment is more peaceful and sublime. The bears, the deer and other wild life seem to sense this quietude and are more friendly and more in evidence. Yosemite is still being enjoyed by thousands who realize that this is the most advantageous time to go. Fishing is reported to be better than at any time during the season and pack trips are very popular. High Sierra camps in Yosemite are doing a record business and the slogan, "1.00 per meal and 1.00 per night," seems to attract an increasingly large number of high mountain devotees.

Some water is still coming over the falls and there is an abundance of interesting things to do. Nightly programs are always given and everything that was in order during the height of the season is still in order. For those who are wise, this is the time to visit Yosemite, nature's masterpiece, suggests the touring department of the National Automobile club.

OVER-INFLATION WARNING ISSUED

"Riding on air" sounds like the maximum of comfort.

"Riding on too much air can easily be far from comfortable," says Jess Goodman, of the Goodman Tire Store, at Second and Main streets, distributor for the General tire in this city.

"Compressed air, enclosed in a rubber container like an automobile tire, can easily be made as inflexible as steel or wood. Ever since automobile tires were first made, tire manufacturers have been striving to cut down the amount of air pressure that their tires require, so that motorists might ride more comfortably.

"That is why high pressure pneumatic tires have given way to the lower pressure balloon tires. Most of the present day balloon tires, however, have only gone half way in providing maximum comfort for motorists by reducing air pressure.

"True, they have reduced air pressures as much as they dare—as much as their tires will stand without giving way.

"In the Dual Balloon Blowout-Proof tire, General has gone farther than any of them in recommending low air pressures to provide greater comfort while riding.

"It has been able to recommend safely lower air pressures, because of the distinctive patented type of construction of this tire. For the rigid breaker-strip found today in many balloon tires between the tread and the cord plies, General uses instead, in its Dual Balloon tire, additional plies of soft rubber, which give but do not break or bend under low inflation as a rigid breaker strip would."

Delightful One Day Trip From Bay Suggested

A lovely one day trip may be had, suggests the National Automobile club, by taking the road from Sausalito through San Anselmo and Fairfax, paved thus far, and then over the splendid road completed not long ago, through Lagunitas to Alema and Inverness. This road is all through beautiful country, some of it thickly wooded with a creek running through. A return trip of more than usual interest is down the Bolinas road to within two miles of Bolinas, then skirting the bay to Sausalito Beach. At this point turn left on the road that reads "To Mill Valley" and follow the road over the shoulder of Mt. Tamalpais (this is not the toll road) and along the crest to where the Muir Woods, Mill Valley and Sausalito roads cross. Continue on the latter to the Sausalito ferry for San Francisco.

Walter Graves Is Sales Manager

The appointment of Walter S. Graves, newly named sales manager of Dodge Brothers motor truck division, to the motor truck committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce was announced this week by Alvan Macauley, president. Mr. Graves has had a long and wide experience in the automobile and motor truck industries and has been associated with the Dodge truck sales organization for several years.

'Autocide' Means Death By Auto

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 20.—(UP)—If homicide means "killed by a man," and suicide means "killed by self," then why not "autocide" for "killed by an automobile?"

This question is asked by statisticians of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, who are looking for a short, handy term to be used in referring to motor vehicle fatalities.

The expression, "motor vehicle fatality," is not only difficult to handle, but gets monotonous through unvaried use. It is pointed out. Hence the quest for suitable synonyms.

NEW DODGE TRUCK

New 1 1/2-ton, four-cylinder Dodge Brothers truck, priced at $595 for the chassis, a new record low figure for a Dodge truck. This model introduces to the popular-priced truck field many advanced and costly features of design and construction.

"HOW'S SHE HITTING?"

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

These warm summer days cause a condition in the motor that, paradoxically, seems to get worse with the tendency: to improve the fuel. Fuel engineers have been paying considerable attention to this trouble of late, although contenting themselves so far with blaming it on the engine designers rather than finding fault with their own work.

The trouble is called vapor, or gas lock, a condition caused by undue high temperature of the fuel in the carburetor. This gets to such a point that it shuts off the regular supply of fuel, and nothing can be done until the engine has been cooled down somewhat after a short wait.

According to fuel engineers, this condition manifests itself in any of four ways:

1. Failure of the engine to idle after a fast, hot run, or in heavy traffic. This is the most common occurrence.

2. Intermittent or uneven running during acceleration after a period of idling.

3. Intermittent or uneven running during a sustained high speed run.

4. Sudden stopping of the engine after a long hot run. This occurs rather seldom.

All of these conditions occur particularly in hot weather.

The reason for this trouble engineers ascribe to an overheated carburetor. That means a carburetor that may show only five or six degrees higher temperature than the gas in the vacuum or fuel tank. That is enough to result in vaporization of the gas before it reaches the jet, and thus shutting off further supply of the fuel.

This, in turn, the fuel engineers say, is due to lack of proper design on the part of the automotive engineers. These include proper placement of the carburetor in relation to the manifold, proper location of the fuel feed line and fuel pump or vacuum position of the exhaust pipe and, finally, proper position of the carburetor air intake.

However, it has been found that the type of fuel used also plays a part in this difficulty. And here is where the gasoline manufacturers are faced with a peculiar situation. While they are trying to furnish us with a more volatile, and thereby more efficient, fuel, they are at the same time increasing the tendency toward vapor lock. For the more volatile the fuel the greater will be its tendency toward gas locking.

The solution, as the fuel men see it, is to rearrange the design of the motor so that the carburetor will keep cool in the hottest weather.

If, therefore, your engine seems to show tendencies of stalling or "bucking," after a long run in hot weather, or during idling, it may be preferable to get a less volatile fuel rather than the more expensive high test gasolines on the market today.

If a low temperature fuel is being used, and the motor still bucks under these conditions, another remedy is to place a thick sheet of asbestos plate between the carburetor and the heated idling riser, or between the carburetor and the exhaust manifold. The idea is to deflect away from the carburetor, or fuel pump if there is one in your car, the air that happens to be heated by the exhaust pipe.

This tendency to vapor lock is said to appear in only about one-fifth of the cars on the road. But it is enough to cause fuel manufacturers to hesitate putting on the market as volatile and efficient a fuel as they can, one that would be easier to throttle through the carburetor, that would distribute itself more uniformly in a multi-cylindered engine, that would be a cleaner burning fuel, would give better acceleration and have better antiknock qualities.

And this at a time of their greatest sales volume!

One of the important reasons for overheating of the engine at this time of year is clogging of the cooling system with rust scale and lime deposits that should have been cleaned out last spring. Sometimes even a spring cleaning, if not done thoroughly, won't avail and it may become necessary for the motorist to repeat the cleaning process now.

The passages in the radiator core are very small and therefore are liable to become clogged easily with rust, sludge and scale in the system. Therefore the least sign of a quickly heating engine should be a warning to give the system a thorough cleaning.

On an average, cleaning of the cooling system needs only semi-annual attention—in spring, when the anti-freeze is drained out, and in fall when it is restored. But if a car is driven hard and covers more than average mileage in a few months, there should be intermediate draining and cleaning in the middle of summer and the middle of winter.

The accumulation in the radiator and engine block is similar to the deposits on the inside of a tea kettle, after it has been filled and refilled numerous times. Just as a housewife has to cleanse this out thoroughly, the motorist must do likewise with his car's cooling system. Even more so, for he has to contend with an additional accumulation of rust from the engine

KEEP UP PRODUCTION OF GOODRICH TIRES

Curtailment of automobile tire production in September in an effort to reduce inventories before November 1, as rumored in the rubber industry and financial circles, will not be effective in the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company.

Goodrich district managers, at a conference recently held in Akron, reported an increase in tire sales during the last two months and indicated a better monthly volume average for the second half of this year than for the first six months of 1930.

Care Necessary On Pacific Highway

The Pacific Highway to Grants Pass is all in good condition, with the following exceptions: Construction from five miles south of Wil-lows into that town, though on a new location, requires careful driving because of numerous trucks, steam shovels and other equipment on the road, reports the touring department of the National Automobile club.

block and it doesn't take much of this to block the entire system and cause overheating of the engine.

Cleaning the cooling system is simple. First, drain the system of whatever liquid is in it. Then dissolve a half pound of baking soda, or salt, in a gallon of water and pour that into the system. If the system takes more water than that add the difference, with a proportionate amount of soda dissolved in it.

With the bottom pet-cock closed and the radiator cap locked, run the engine for about 15 minutes. Then drain.

The engine should be started again and, while it is running, with the lower pet-cock open, water should be kept pouring into the system from the top for another 15 minutes. This can be done by means of a hose connection to the house water supply, with the water running just about as fast as it drains.

After this the pet-cock may be shut and the system refilled with fresh water.

If the drained water reveals a radiator and engine block with a heavy accumulation of rust and lime scale, it may be advisable to uncouple the lower hose connection after the engine has been run with the soda solution, and shoot water upward into the radiator from below. The radiator cap should be locked during this operation, and there should be a slight force behind the water.

The pressure, however, must not be too heavy—only about 10 to 20 pounds—and it must not be maintained for any considerable length of time of it would force leaks in the radiator core. The upward flow at this pressure should be maintained for only about two minutes and the water allowed to drain quickly through the wide hose opening. This would also permit the water in the system to rush out quickly, taking with it whatever rust and scale could not get out through the pet-cock.

This process should be repeated with care until the water comes through clean.

In closing the system, the hose connections should be replaced with new ones if they show any signs of deterioration.

ADVISE MOTORISTS TO CHECK UP CARS

A complete and thorough "check-up" of all parts of the car is now advisable after the summer vacation season and holiday driving, declares the emergency road service department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Hard usage is given a machine during the summer vacation trips, so that a good "going over" including tightening and general adjustments, is very timely.

Parts of the car that should be checked now include: the lighting system, including re-focusing and brightening of globes and reflectors, adjustment, cleaning and tightening of brake bands; checking of the cooling system; adjustment of windshield wipers and tightening of bumpers and other protective equipment; patching of tire cuts, etc. Going over the car for minor troubles benefits the motorist, especially during the approaching rainy season.

RIDGE ROUTE ROAD TO PALMDALE GOOD

The road from Palmdale to the Ridge Route, via Hughes Lake and Pine Canyon, a distance of 38 miles, is in very good condition, according to the touring department of the National Automobile club. This is a good graded natural gravel road and fast time can be made over this route.

ONE of the four is unfit. And the unfit one makes it difficult for the other three to function.

So it is with motor oil. A gallon of ordinary motor oil contains only three quarts of lubrication. The fourth is light ends, with little or no value as a lubricant. The efficiency of the three quarts is lessened by the fourth worthless quart that is left in by ordinary refining.

By the special Quaker State super-refining process the non-lubricating matter is completely eliminated from Quaker State Oil. You get four quarts of superior lubrication in every gallon when you buy Quaker State Oil.

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The Tintin's game of golf was queer, and Mister Travel Man stayed near to watch the little fellows drive and putt. He often had to grin. Said Coppy, "Gee, I know my stuff! I'm very seldom in the rough, and when I reach the green I promptly putt the ball right in."

"Sometimes you do," snapped Carpy. "But I've seen you miss an easy putt. Don't brag about your golf because you're not so very good. Why, I know more about this game than you. I will really be a shame how badly I will beat you. And, of course, that's as I should."

The Travel Man then spread a grin and said, "I hope you all can win, but, really, what's the difference? It is real fun, just the same. Why, I've played golf year after year and lost, but never shed a tear. If you can win or lose and laugh, it is a dandy game."

They finished with their game and then rushed up and hopped a small train when the Travel Man said, "Now we'll go to Zurich. What a spot! I know you've liked St. Moritz well and you will find the next town swell. You'll have another spell of wondrous pleasure, like as not."

The train kept chugging hours and hours. They traveled through a couple of showers and then out in the sun again. A rainbow streamed the sky. "Here's Zurich," cried the Travel Man. "All hop right out now, if you can. You all seemed interested and I thought we'd ride right by."

"Course Zurich was a big resort where everybody went for sport. The first thing that the Tintins did was loudly shout, 'Let's go and find a boat which we can take right out upon that lovely lake.' They shortly found the boat and all went out for quite a row.

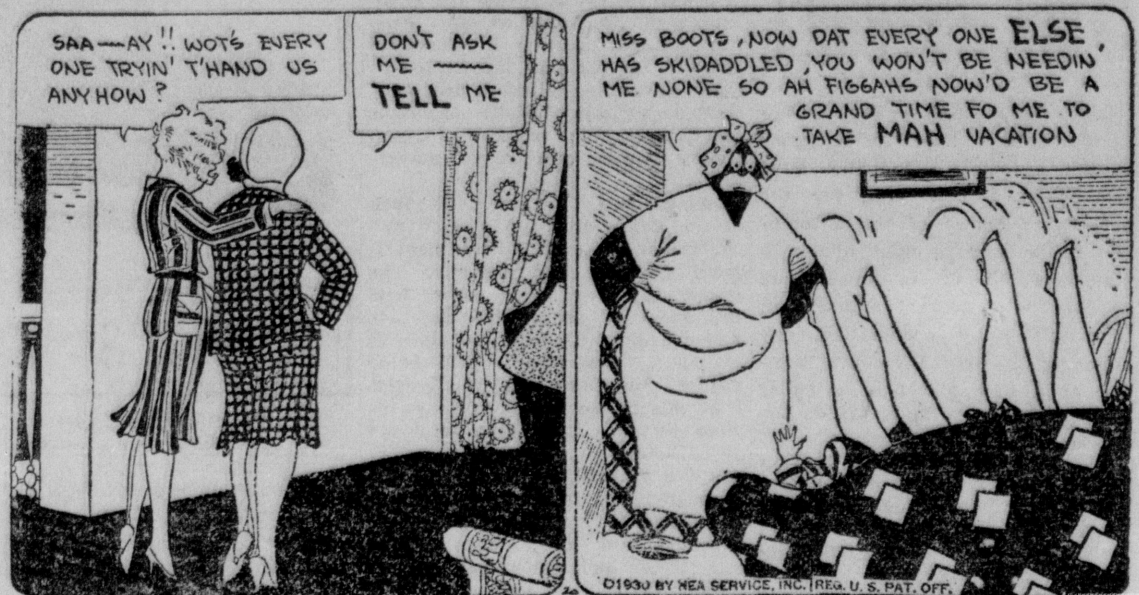

(The Tintinmites attend a water carnival in the next story.)

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to TIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

THE YORBA LINDA FARM CENTER

TOP BY BOYS

YORBA LINDA, Sept. 20.—The first meeting of the thesaurus for the Yorba Linda Farm center was held Friday evening at the Woman's clubhouse, with E. E. Campbell, R. K. Bishop and the boys of the local 4-H club who made the trip to Davis, as speakers.

The center voted to enter an exhibit at the county fair and Miss Marsha Vernon of the Woman's club and F. V. Stahler, president of the chamber of commerce, offered the aid of these organizations to help with the exhibit.

Another matter left to the absent president was the appointing of a nominating committee, for the annual meeting and election of officers will be held in October.

R. K. Bishop spoke on the western regional conference, held at Salt Lake City. Campbell said he expected the conference would come to Santa Ana next year, some time in July. Eleven western states will be represented and there will be 300 or more delegates, farmers from these states.

Campbell urged the center to send a delegation to the California Farm Bureau Federation state conference at Asilomar November 10-11-12, and the center voted to give $25 toward the expenses of a Santa Ana county delegation to send 15 cars to this conference. It is planned to go to Santa Barbara for a farm bureau meeting November 8, going on to Salinas, on Sunday, where other delegates will gather, and then to Asilomar.

A. G. Mortiz, who was in charge of the first part of the program, introduced Eric Eastman, who told of the arrangements whereby the 4-H boys went to Davis, and Donald Walker, Stanley Dyckman and Gilbert May, who went from Yorba Linda, told of their trip, of the things seen at Davis and at the State fair.

WHAT WILL $25,000 BUY?
Thinking in the terms of orange groves, $25,000 will buy this 14 acres. The trees are young—planted last spring and are selected from the very finest stock. The loan soil will hasten these young trees into a thrifty, bearing orange grove, in but a very few years. In the meantime, there are beans between the trees, to pay expense of upkeep and possibly a nice profit. May we show you? No. 452.

RESORTING TO WILE AND LIES

Probably the most discouraging effort which men put forth is that of the man in capacity of a candidate, standing for law enforcement, and particularly the enforcement of the law which forbids the sale of alcoholic poison.

The Constitutional amendment covering this was adopted by an overwhelming majority. In fact, only three legislative bodies in the entire country failed to endorse it, and in most of the states of the Union, the people are for it by a vast majority. In Orange county undoubtedly the vote would stand four to one in its favor, and yet candidates who believe in it, who have accepted the teachings from childhood, and whose lives and determination square with the law and the expressed convictions of the people, are made the targets of politicians, and their natural friends are so lied to concerning these candidates and these friends are so gullible, that the candidate finds his reputation assaulted and his supposed support dissipated because of the untruthfulness and schemyness of the very ones whose activities are breaking down the Constitution and the Law.

We find a case in point in the candidacy of Harry Westover for the office of District Attorney in Orange county. It is the one office which, if it is held by a man who is determined to see that the laws are enforced, the bootleggers and other racketeers will find Orange county unhealthy and unprofitable, and will search for other fields to exploit, where they will not come in conflict with a determined official. In consequence of this, not able to fight the position which Mr. Westover assumes, they are trying to assassinate his reputation.
The same thing was done to the other candidates in the primaries, as well as to him, but less determinedly, because it was less important.

It actually became necessary, in order to meet one of these dirty stories, which actually would have made him guilty of a crime, that in the interest of justice and square dealing, the directors of an institution with which he had been officially connected, came together and officially passed a resolution that after searching the books and noting the records, there was not one vestige of evidence that would sustain even the intent of such an act, of which the story would lead the people to believe he was guilty.

Our sympathy goes out to Mr. Westover, but more than our sympathy. We believe this kind of thing should be a challenge to every citizen of Orange county, to see to it that the line of demarcation is clear; that the issues are known; that the man who dares to stand independent, on behalf of the Constitution and the Law, shall have a square deal, and that the citizens should have a square deal, for they need it.

He is an incident, but the cause of law enforcement and independent action on behalf of the people is not an incident. That is an all-important necessity, if we are going to keep,
as citizens in Orange county, to the principles which are enunciated by our moral and spiritual leaders.

OPPORTUNITIES TO LEARN

Attention should be called to the approaching opportunities for adult study which will soon be offered. For the past several days a brief series of articles has been run in The Register, and will continue for a time, calling attention to the courses which will be offered by the adult education department. Through the assistance of the city librarian the facilities of the library have been synchronized with the adult education offerings and are being "talked-up" in this way.

It is one of the most interesting facts imaginable that in a few weeks all of us are to be offered "another chance to learn." Those who have the time to attend classes during the daytime hours had their "chance" presented when Junior college opened. Those who are confined during the day will have their opportunity for evening classes.

This community, we were informed by the state director of adult education, is one of the banner ones in attendance at adult education classes. Last year there was an average of six hundred who studied one of the many classes offered through the Santa Ana schools by the adult education department.

In a short time a full schedule will be presented of the classes to be opened. In addition the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. are offering "chances" to learn public speaking and have classes in public speaking and physical development.

If there is a will to learn, there is no reason why the adult cannot learn as readily, if not more readily than the younger person in school.
The idea that the brain of the adult becomes atrophied at a certain age is as out of date as the idea that the woman's brain is smaller than the man's.

Possibly a few people are still a bit ashamed to appear in a class; feeling that they are blatantly advertising their ignorance. That is not the case. People with the right to several degrees will be found in some of the classes, for they know that there is still much more for them to learn and the best of them know better than to be ashamed.

Incidentally a scheme of regular study is an actual tonic. If one didn't return as fresh and "peppy" from the vacation as one expected, try a course of study under the adult education department. It is work of a sort but it is interesting and different. It has a queer way of revitalizing every contact and activity of one's life.

A WORD FOR THE Y. M. C. A.

The Young Men's Christian Association the other day received an endorsement from a quarter and in character that is exceedingly significant.

Roger W. Babson, the statistical expert, came out in the most striking kind of a declaration, indicating that the Young Men's Christian Association, simply as an economic institution in its influence upon character, because of the relation of character to business depression, is one of the most important institutions to sus-tain. Here is in part what he said:

Business depressions are caused by dissipation, dishonesty, disobedience to God's will—a general collapse of moral character. Statistics show this plainly. With equal precision they show how business depressions are cured. They are cured by moral awakening, spiritual revival, and the rehabilitation of righteousness. The "American Bankers' Association" can provide capital. The "American Statistical Association" can measure results. But the association which goes to the real root of the matter is the "Young Men's Christian Association." This latter has far greater possibilities than the others combined.

To bring back prosperity, people must be "conditioned," as the psychologist says. They must be conditioned in right ways of working and living on all sides of the triangle of physical, mental, and spiritual values. The economic welfare of our nation can be directly promoted by supporting our Young Men's Christian Associations. They are indispensable agencies in laying the foundation for better times. Any lessening of support of the Young Men's Christian Association at this critical juncture is like withholding seed at the very moment when all hands are sowing for a life-giving harvest. I go further and say that business men should today increase their support of this and all other truly religious work.

The world's gold supply, it is announced, is fast disappearing. And it is pretty well recognized that the dentists are having their fill.

REGULATING AIRPLANES

Nassau county, Long Island, New York has established a curfew law for airplane flights at night. Since September 1, night flying over that county has been limited to 10 p. m.
The restriction followed a flood of complaints from the residents of Nassau county that the airplanes interfered seriously with their rest.

How quickly has the wonder of airplane travel given way to the feeling that at times it is a nuisance!

A few years ago, when automobiles were first appearing on the highway, it was customary in many places for those who owned the strange and horrifying new contraption to place notices in the newspaper of the community stating on which roads they proposed to travel on their next journey with the auto, so that timid souls whose horses took fright at the car could avoid the highways on which the automobile owner was to travel that day.

There isn't much connection between that bit of history and the regulation of the airplane so that it will not interfere with New York commuters' rest. But the day may come when airplane travel will be so confined to definite routes that we will consider it most queer that they were ever permitted to travel whether the pilot willed about the country.

Effect of Diet on Mental Activity

BY ANDY HALL, M.D.
Health Director, State of Illinois in United States Daily

The trouble with a dullard in school may be nothing more than a poor choice of food. A shortage of vitamin B and G in the diet produces injurious effects on the nervous system which reduces the mental alertness of individuals.

Red meat, poultry, fish, dairy produce, eggs, vegetables, cereals, and fruits are all prominent in a list of 75 food preparations specified by Dr.
Tallafiero Clark, of the United States Public Health Service, as needed for an adequate food supply of school children. Manifestly all items are not recommended for a single meal nor the menu for a single day but all are required for a well-rounded dietary program.

Evidence of unbalanced or inadequate variety of food ultimately shows itself in the form of decayed teeth, rickets, physical weakness, pellagra, certain kinds of nervousness, eye diseases, scurvy and beriberi. These are, of course, results, however, of complete or very pronounced deficiencies in essential food requirements over extended periods.
Minor departures from right diet may cause moderate degrees of mental sluggishness, greater susceptibility to contagious diseases, the development of physical defects, underweight, restless habits, irritability and the like.

There are, of course, a multitude of factors beside diet which have profound influence over health but diet is a very important one which every intelligent household can control in large degree.

Showing the Influence of Debunking History

San Francisco Chronicle

Certain members of a college examining board in Boston are a bit mystified by a girls' high school honor student who says that Abraham Lincoln had something to do with slavery but on failing to finish the job turned it over to George Washington.

That probably isn't the way the college board learned its history. Frankly, it isn't what we read in old Peter Goodrich's text book. But what of it?

The Boston girl is right. No doubt some authority of debunking in the last few years. Maybe this is another age and history has undergone relative debunker could be found to prove, to his own satisfaction at least, that there is a strong presumption in favor of that girl's view of the matter.

We would not be surprised any day now to pick up a book devoted to correcting the popular errors as to certain dates and tending or pretending to prove that Columbus did not discover America until 1862, that 1776 should be remembered with blushes as the year of the Teapot Dome scandal and that 1492, when the truth prevails, will be notable chiefly for the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

That Boston girl should not be discouraged.
She shows all the era-marks of a modern young debunker.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE REAL SAVAGE

The clam is guiltless of offence
He has no pose and no pretence,

And when the object of attack
He never thinks of fighting back.

But though he's mild and kind and tame
We catch and eat him just the same.

The lobster is not so serene,
His heart is bad and base and mean,

And if he has the slightest cause
He'll nip your fingers with his claws.

But though he's savage, rough and rude,
We also use him for our food.

The cow is man's devoted friend,
She does not strut or condescend,

But she and all her gentle ilk
Supply us with our cream and milk,

But when she's old, her life we take
And turn her into tripe and steak.

The bear will bite us if he can;
He harbors wicked hate for man,

And so without the least demur
We stalk and slay him for his fur.

There ought to be some moral here
But what it is does not appear.

Except that man no difference knows
Between his earthly friends and foes.

WHAT ABOUT WIVES?

James W. Gerard says America has sixty-four rulers, and he does not name one woman among them.

The Fallacy of Saving

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

All about us today we see surplus productive facilities; more tanneries than we can use; more freight cars; more oil wells;
more mills, and mines, and factories.

Those are SAVINGS. In fact, savings are made chiefly in the form of productive facilities. That is one point on which the economists agree, the orthodox as well as the dissenters.

Evidently we have Saved Too Much. Nobody has to be an economist to see that. He need only keep his eyes open. Everywhere he looks, he sees more fixed capital—more means of producing wealth—than we have found any way of using. Not only have we more steamships, and cotton mills, and shoe shops, and automobile factories; but virtually every industry complains that it has excess productive capacity.

Yet right now, many bankers, and preachers, and teachers are complaining that our extravagant wage-earners are not saving enough; right now, when at least two million workers are without work, solely because the people are not spending enough.

This fallacy of saving, preached partly for the purpose of preventing poverty, is today a cause of poverty.

How did an entire nation ever get in the grip of such a plain and destructive error? That is the question we want to take up next week.

(Copyright, 1930, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Pop and ma are still undecided what to decide about which kind of a automobile to buy; a Sparrow or a Wimple, and last night ma sed, I had 2 driving lessons today, Will-yumn, the Sparrow man gave me one and then the Wimple man gave me one, so now I can reely compare how the 2 cars drive from my own original experience. And I must say I don't think there's much to choose between them because they both drive perfectly, she sed.

For Pest sake do you mean to say you axually drove 2 cars today and are alive to tell the tale? possed, and ma sed, Certainly, there's nothing difficult about it, all you have to do is simply turn the wheel
the way you want the car to go, and it goes that way without the slightest question, even if it's around a corner.

But how about the gas, the axcellerator and all that? pop sed, and ma sed, O, I suppose you mean that little thing you push with your foot. It was funny about that. I kepp confusing it with the brake, although as a matter of fact its genrel effect is the very opposite, and when the Sparrow man called out Brake, I felt I had to do something without waiting too much time thinking, and what I did was press down on the little round thing. We didnt axually bump into anything, but the 2nd time I did it the Sparrow man took charge of everything himself except the wheel, and thats how I happen to know so much about the wheel, ma
sed.

And after that you still had the courage to try the Wimple—pop sed, and ma sed, Certainly, one didnt take any more courage than the other.

And the Wimple man did the same thing, I suppose, just let you have the wheel? pop sed, and ma
sed. He went even further, he took personal control of everything except the horn, so all I did for quite a while was blow that, until the sound of it seemed to get on his nerves and he finished the driving lesson and drove me home.

2 driving lessons, ye gods, pop
sed.

And he took out his new cigar lighter to see if it was working, wich it wasent.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

WATCH THE TIRED PROPHETS

There is nothing more seductive than a blind optimism, unless it is an uncritical allowing of every prophecy of doom that comes our way.

I am not sure that the warning most needed by an America suffering from economic shell-shock is a warning against heeding the prophets of doom with too great credulity.

A great deal of the gloomy outlook that appears and reappears in current literature of social and economic analysis is a kind of intellectual fatigue-poison generated by post-war weariness and what I have called economic shell-shock from the market collapse.

The prophetic spirit is not immune to the enervating atmosphere of a time when the general spirit has more or less surrendered to events instead of dominating them.

There is always danger that the prophet will get tired and abdicate just when he is most needed to bring a rigorous sanity to the social and economic analysis of his time.

There have been eras in history when humanity became tired, when men's emotions went quickly gray, and when responsible and realistic prophets disappeared.

A man who had spent his life pleading for intelligent social statesmanship might understandably give up the ghost, and surrender to a superficial pessimism, after a world war that seemed to send all his hopes of an ordered world aglimmering.

Men who bankrupted their energies in pleading for far-sighted business statesmanship might understandably grow glum as they watched a leadership let a nation fall into an economic slump that forebode might have prevented.

There is only one factor in the current situation that is crucial, and that is the factor of leadership.

As I have said, repeated, and emphasized during the last few weeks, in the midst of depression, we have all the material factors for Utopia.

Let's watch the tired prophets and refuse to take them too seriously, and then demand leader-ships that will dominate instead of being dominated by the events of the day.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THAT DIRTY CHILD

"That's the third set of clothes
I have put on that child this day.
Now look at him. Isn't he the dirtiest thing you ever saw? He loves dirt. He seems to hate to be clean."

The truth of the matter is the child thinks nothing about the matter either way. His clothes do not interest him at all once they are on him. Unless they are conspicuously wrong he forgets all about them and goes at his business of play.

Could you dig a ditch, build a city, make a batch of mud pies, and your automobile in spots array? It may be spotless when you begin but I doubt that it will remain that way. Work, activity, will leave traces on any uniform.

A day's dirt will never hurt a child. If he has a bath every night, and he ought to have, and a sponging off every morning, and he ought to have that also, he is clean. The dirt he gathers during the day will not hurt him half as much as your constant washing and changing will do.

Dress him in overalls and let it go at that for the day. Why not?
Why should a child be dressed in clothing that he must regard beyond all else? Play is his highly important business. If he does not play with undivided spirit he plays badly. The child whose play has been thwarted grows up to be a poor worker. As he plays he will work.

"Then as he is unclean he will be unclean?" Not at all. I tell you he is not dirty. The traces of his activity that mark his dress are not dirt. Dirt is material out of place and I contend that these traces are in place and therefore not dirt.

When a boy or a girl reaches the stage of adolescence he begins to think about his appearance.
The clothes are carefully selected, carefully put on, proudly worn.
Clothes have become an expression of a very strong force and they have a meaning to the child.
Younger children have no such feeling and clothes are coverings save in exceptional children who seem to be born with a love of fine raiment. They never are called dirty. Indeed they worry their mothers because they think so much of their clothes.

Of course there are occasions for dressing up. Parties and holiday occasions and dress parades must be provided for generously.
Fancy dresses must be gay and colorful but do not make them so costly that they become an anxiety that they become an anxiety. One can make lovely costumes out of very cheap material and they answer every purpose.
Little children should never wear anything that costs so much that it cannot be replaced without straining the budget.

Dress the child for the occasion, and the simpler the dress the better. Don't worry about one day's dirt that a bath will remove.
And never mind the neighbors.
Set the example and they will fall in line.

ON THE SIDELINES

Which may or may not be in accord with the views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

OUR GLORIOUS CLIMATE.

Speaking of Southern California's justly famed climate, here is an old joke on the subject, which is now being told as the story of an incident of a Santa Barbara funeral:

The officiating clergyman being a little late, an old resident of the Channel City was asked to make a few remarks. He rose and said something to the effect that he could only hope that the deceased was going to a climate that was half as perfect as that of Santa Barbara, where it was never too cold, never too warm, where life was a long and delicious dream, and so on and so on. It was said to have made a great hit with the mourners for its appropriateness and eloquence.

A REDLANDS SEES IT.

They are telling (and printing) this one in Florida:
"And you mean to say that in California you have 365 days of sunshine a year?"

The man from Redlands: "Exactly so—and that's a mighty conservative estimate."

HE SOLVED HIS PROBLEM.

Just what is best for a man to do who finds himself the more or less proud possessor of a wife who lives in San Francisco, and another, a bride of less than a month, who lives in Oakland?

Such was the predicament of Thomas W. Haddon, to give him his San Francisco name, or Jack Ball, as he was known in Oakland.

With two names, two wives, and the officers on his trail for bigamy, these seemed but one solution of the problem. So he "seen his duty and done it" by throwing himself into the bay.

IT CAN BE DONE.

A family of four can live on good things to eat at a cost of only $13.72 per week, according to the American Research Foundation, which urges the housewives to buy in as large quantities as possible and to watch newspaper advertisements closely. We have tried the plan in our family and it works finely.

It might be as well, however, to add that in order to keep the family of four within the budget it is necessary that at least one complete meal per day shall consist exclusively of the newspaper advertisements.

With this slight addendum the plan is perfectly feasible.

A GOOD LOSER.—As was expected by the friends of Gov.

C. C. Young, who has shown himself a cheerful loser. When Mayor Rolph went to the State fair, the other day, his stay in the city of Sacramento was marked by the fact that he was the honored, personal guest of Gov.

C. C. Young. More than this Gov.
Young has issued instructions to the heads of all the state departments that everything possible be done to enable the incoming state administration to take hold of the affairs of the state with full knowledge
